Progress Reported On Central Front—Germans Seek To Retake Kharkov

By NATALIA RENE
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

MOSCOW, March 11. — Red army forces moved steadily forward today in the central front drive aimed at Vyazma and Smolensk in the upper Donets region the Russians were locked in bitter defensive battles.

The Soviet high command admitted in its noon communique that the Red army south and west of the Ukraine industrial city of Kharkov were fighting against numerically superior German forces attempting to retake Kharkov.

Front dispatches said that the Russians had held the Germans to a standstill below Kharkov for the past 12 hours in some of the fiercest tank and infantry engagements of the war. The attacking Nazis were reported to have lost 40 additional tanks in their furious thrusts to smash the Soviet defenses.

WARNS BRITAIN GREATER GERMAN RAIDS PROBABLE

By LOWELL BENNETT
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, March 11 — Sharp warning that the German air force may return to England in force was voiced to the House of Commons today by Sir Archibald Sinclair, secretary of state for air.

Introducing annual air estimates to the house and announcing decision to establish a Royal Air Force transport command, obviously in preparation for invasion of Europe, Sir Archibald said:

"It would be a great mistake to suppose that strength of the German striking force in Western Europe is measureable by the size of (current) raids on England.

"Throughout the year there has been a formidable German bombing force in Western Europe."

British anti-aircraft fire, Sinclair said, has proved a great deterrent to ambitious day or night bombing raids on England. Anti-aircraft has inflicted nearly three times as great casualties upon the enemy in the British Isles in the last few months as the Germans have dealt out to the R. A. F.

"The pulverizing offensive from here," he said, "is compelling the Germans to switch a not unimportant proportion of their production from bombers to defensive fighters."

HUGE DAMAGE BY BOMB RAIDS IN NAZI CITIES

(International News Service)

LONDON, March 11.—Two thousand German factories and industrial establishments have been destroyed or blasted out of action by the Royal Air Force, Secretary of State for Air Sir Archibald Sinclair told the House of Commons today.

More than 1,000,000 Germans have been rendered homeless by the pulverizing attacks, which Sinclair said would continue with increasing strength. He warned, however, that the German air force at any time might attempt retaliation in force.

Fires In France; Signs Of Unrest

By CHARLES A. SMITH
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, March 11.—Twelve fires were reported to have broken out in southwestern France today at the subjugated nation seethed with unrest under new impositions by Nazi occupation forces.

The German-controlled Vichy radio said that the 12 fires broke out this morning in the vicinity of Cahors, southwestern France. One blaze started in the welfare department of the Cahors town hall while another flared in an airplane hangar where local services to care for refugees had been installed.

Nazis Worried

New evidence appeared meanwhile of the extreme concern of the Nazis over the consequences of the continuing unrest of the French populace, including the possibility of an early allied invasion. Reports from the continent said that the Germans had doubled precautions against allied landing attempts.

The Algiers radio, according to Reuter's, reported that a crack "SS"

COFFEE RATION IS INCREASED

Next Stamp Will Only Be Required To Last For Five Weeks

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Federal Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown today boosted the nation's coffee rations 16 per cent by announcing that the next coffee rationing period would be cut from six to five weeks.

Stamp No. 26 from war ration book 1 will purchase one pound of coffee between March 22 and April 25, the OPA said today. Prior to this time, one stamp had to last six weeks.

"Coffee imports for February have exceeded estimates by more than 20 per cent, adding substantial amounts to previously depleted January inventories of approximately 145,000,000 pounds," Brown explained in announcing the increase.

The price administrator declared that the more liberal ration "exemplifies one of the basic principles of OPA policy—that of relaxing rationing restrictions wherever and just as soon as circumstances permit."

Weighty Evidence Amuses Courtroom

Sewer-Drop Lid Requires Six Men To Carry, But Disproves Damage Claim

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, March 11.—Court circles were amused today over the evidence weighed by a jury to return a verdict in favor of the city of Pittsburgh in a personal injury suit.

The evidence—a steel and concrete sewer-drop that required six men to carry it into court—weighed several hundred pounds.

It tipped the scales against Mrs. Ida Kaufman, 66, a widow, who brought suit for injuries sustained by a fall allegedly due to the sewer-drop lid which tilted in October, 1941.

The plaintiff appeared in court in a wheelchair, but the jury ruled against her after the city proved that the manhole cover brought into court was the same one that had been installed at the scene of the accident.

WOUNDS BRIDE, KILLS SELF AFTER QUARREL

(International News Service)

WILMINGTON, Del., March 11—Benjamin Grose, 23, of nearby Minquadale, today wounded his bride of one month and then shot himself through the head at the climax of a quarrel over a threat to pawn a suit to raise funds for living expenses, police reported.

Mrs. Elizabeth Grose, 31, told authorities her husband fired two shots at her, one of which inflicted a slight flesh wound on the neck, and then turned the revolver on himself. She said he was melancholy over unemployment and that she remonstrated with him.

Grose died shortly after being admitted to Delaware hospital.

Jap Shipping Again Bombed

Gen. MacArthur Reports Five Jap Ships Hit Directly Or Damaged

SHORE DEFENSES ALSO BLASTED

By LEE VAN ATTA
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, March 11.—A resumption of severe bombing by Allied fliers against Japanese shipping was announced today by Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Five Jap ships were either hit directly or damaged by near misses while a sixth coastal vessel was strafed with gunfire in aerial assaults over waters around New Guinea and the Netherlands East Indies, a communique said.

The heaviest attack, with 1,000-pound bombs, was made on Jap shipping off Wewak, New Guinea. Several near hits were scored on two medium-sized cargo vessels in the harbor.

"One at least, estimated at 5,000-tons, received severe damage and was heavily smoking after the attack," the communique said.

Shore Installations Battered

Shore installations at Wewak, on the north shore of northeast New Guinea, were heavily battered at the same time. Hits landed in the warehouse area and among searchlight positions. One of the latter was smashed by a direct hit.

Complete observation of results of the heavy assault could not be made because of the billowing clouds of smoke which rose from the target area.

The Allied airmen encountered heavy anti-aircraft fire from Jap batteries but the enemy made no

SENATOR GUFFEY FORECASTS AGAIN

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, March 11.—For the third time in the past 30 days, Senator Joseph F. Guffey was on record today with a prediction that Petroleum Coordinator Harold L. Ickes will inform western Pennsylvanians within 24 hours whether their appeal for more gasoline will be granted or denied.

Ickes failed to follow through on the two previous Guffey reports that the ration decision was due "within the next day or so". There has been no concrete intimation so far as to the petroleum administrator's decision.

Western Pennsylvanians have requested Ickes' office to re-assign them to rationing district No. 2, so that they will be eligible for four gallons weekly instead of the three being ladled out in the eastern seaboard states. Their plea is based on the fact that western Pennsylvania produces more gasoline than it uses daily.

CHURCH AT ASHVILLE DESTROYED BY FIRE

Three dwellings and a barn also were partially razed, and police estimated overall damage at $25,000.

Four volunteer companies from Altoona, Patton, Gallitzin and Cresson battled the flames for four hours.

Yanks Shoot Down Four Of 22 Jap Planes In Guadalcanal Area

LARGEST FORCE SEEN IN MONTHS

By JOSEPH A. BORS
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, March 11.—A warning by Secretary of War Stimson that Japanese airpower is growing in the Southwest Pacific was followed closely today by Navy announcement of an air battle over Guadalcanal in which U. S. pilots shot down four out of 22 raiding dive bombers and Zero fighter planes.

It was the largest force of enemy planes to venture over Guadalcanal for months, and indicated that the Japanese were striking back in retaliation for the terrific pounding their bases have received recently at the hands of America's growing South Pacific air force.

The Navy reported that 10 Jap dive bombers, with an escort of 12 Zeros, were intercepted northwest of Guadalcanal on the afternoon of

Freshmen Congressmen Guests At White House

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Sen. Kenneth S. Wherry (R) Neb., who was a guest at President Roosevelt's party for freshman congressmen, today declared that no man—"let alone Franklin Delano Roosevelt"—should have more than two terms in the White House.

Wherry said that "the only safeguard for the American people" is a "constitutional amendment limiting the enure of office of President to two terms."

Wherry and more than 100 other new members of Congress were guests at the White House last night. It was the President's first open move to extend the olive branch to Congress since last November when the Republicans made big gains in both houses.

Wherry, who sat beside President Roosevelt for a part of the evening, said today:

"I am convinced in my own mind more than ever that no man should have more than two terms in the White House—let alone Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

Large Air Squadrons Blasting Jap Bases

By JOSEPH A. BORS
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The largest squadrons of U. S. planes ever to take off from Guadalcanal today are delivering pulverizing blows against Jap bases in the Solomons in a virtual non-stop offensive that may goad the enemy into new counter-blows.

This is the interpretation placed by Navy men on recent communiques which have reported daily bombing raids against Jap installations in the central and northern Solomons.

May Force Action

These sources asserted that the enemy high command may be forced to desperate counter-measures by sea and air to prevent annihilation of Jap garrisons and destruction of installations at Munda, New Georgia, and Buin and Kahili in the Shortland area.

Recent Navy communiques stated significantly that "large" forces of U. S. bombers from Guadalcanal have attacked these important enemy bases, which are within a 300-mile radius of America's Henderson airfield.

For instance, on March 9, Munda

Ten Billion Of Aid To Allies

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., lend-lease administrator, reported to congress today on the second anniversary of passage of lend-lease legislation that the United States had shipped $9,632,000,000 worth of aid—including $1,400,000,000 worth of airplanes—to the Allies in the last two years.

Most significant chapter of the report was the notation that aid to Russia is being sharply increased. It was said, too, that lend-lease help to the United Nations is moving over and across the oceans in steadily rising amounts since four-fifths of all aid was furnished during the last year alone.

The war department refused to discuss the purpose of the Kenney mission, but it was believed possible that the general would make a personal plea for more aid to MacArthur and at the same time outline to the high command the exact situation in the southwest Pacific at the present time.

Stimson Warns Jap Air Strength Is Increasing

Says "Heavy Raids" May Be Expected In New Guinea Area

HARD FIGHTING IS STILL AHEAD

By JOSEPH A. BORS
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Despite successes of Gen Douglas MacArthur's forces in the battle of Bismarck sea, Secretary of War Stimson warned today that Japanese air strength is increasing in the New Guinea area and that "heavy raids" may be expected on United States bases.

"In the southwest Pacific, the aerial duel between United Nations and Japanese forces is continuing," Stimson told his press conference. "While our positions have been greatly improved because of the victory in the Bismarck sea battle, there is ample evidence to support the conviction that hard fighting still lies ahead. There are indications that the Japs have increased their air strength in the New Guinea area and heavy raids may be expected on our bases."

The secretary added that there was little Japanese aerial activity in Burma and China but he said that Japanese ground troops have gianed some headway.

Losses Heavy In Tunisia

(BULLETIN)

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, March 11—Secretary of War Stimson disclosed today that in one week of heavy critical fighting in the Tunisian campaign more than 1,000 Axis prisoners were taken and American losses were 59 killed, 176 wounded and 2,007 missing.

"Losses on both side have been substantial but probably we are in a better position to replace ours," Stimson told his press conference.

The secretary made no estimate of Axis dead but he said that during the heavy fighting that included the American retreat and counter-attack, 1,000 Axis prisoners were taken and over 100 tanks captured or destroyed.

He did add, however, that a "considerable number of enemy forces were killed or wounded."

Allies Testing Axis Lines On Tunisia Front

Patrols Poke Their Way Into Axis Defense Positions Repeatedly

FRENCH FORCES STORM METLAOUI

BULLETIN
ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, March 11—French troops under leadership of Gen. Jacques Leclerc today stormed and captured the Tunisian town of Metlaoui, southwest of Gafsa and 30 miles north of Tozeur on the Chott Tjerid depression.

By ROBERT G. NIXON
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, March 11.—Allied patrols in both Northern and Southern Tunisia poked their way into Axis defense positions today to test the strength of the enemy after failure of his attempts to disrupt organization of Allied forces for a forthcomnig offensive.

Units of British Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's Eighth Army continually harassed the forces of Nazi General Field Marshall Erwin Rommel along the Mareth Line while to the northeast patrols of the British first army were in contact with the Germans around the village of Sojenane.

Lull In Fighting

There was an absence of severe fighting all along the Tunisian front from Cap Serrat on the Mediterranean coast to the Mareth Line in the south for the first time in more than a month. However, the patrol actions of the first army in the north appeared to be on a heavy scale.

The front held by French forces on the south-central sector also was reported quiet after they had occupied the town of Tozeur on the edge of the Chott Djerid-salt lake.

(An Algiers radio broadcast reported by Reuter's said that Gafsa, northeast of Tozeur, was being surrounded from several sides and that its fall appeared imminent.)

Allied Fliers Busy

Allied fliers carried out air sweeps over the Axis lines but the only sign of the enemy air forces came when fighter-bombers attempted to attack Eighth army positions before the Mareth Line. The attacking squadron was broken up before it could inflict any damage.

Allied headquarters announced that there was little enemy activity in the north but stated that British patrols were "extremely active," particularly in the Sedjenane area where they made contact with the Germans.

On all sectors of the Mareth Line to which Rommel withdrew after unsuccessful attempts to pierce the British positions the Eighth Army harassed the Afrika Korps.

Highway Work By WPA Ended

All Men Working On Projects Sponsored By WPA Are Withdrawn

REPORT IS MADE ON STATUS OF PROJECTS

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, March 11.—The WPA has terminated its work on the state highway system, it was announced today.

Secretary of Highways John U. Shroyer said he was notified that all men working on projects sponsored by the Federal work relief agency have been withdrawn, but that the department will take over these projects and complete them with its own forces.

A report submitted to Shroyer showed a total of 159 uncompleted WPA jobs, including 62 projects now in operation, 39 ready to go, and 58 projects which have been delayed. In their report, engineers said that there was a shortage of 600 men on projects in operation and that the ready-to-go jobs were held up through lack of this labor.

Other projects have been delayed due to difficulty involving right of way, delivery of materials, weather conditions, or absence of competent labor, it was explained.

Previously State WPA Administrator Richard Irvin announced that all WPA projects in the state would be completed by May 15 in line with President Roosevelt's order that the agency be liquidated.

"I had a feeling when I came away from the White House—the only safeguard for the American people is to adopt a constitutional amendment limiting the tenure of office of President two terms."

Wherry's declarations brought no immediate response from other members of Congress. However, it was learned that some Republicans were anxiously awaiting reaction to his statements in order to guage public opinion on the fourth term question.

Most of the freshmen representatives and senators who attended the party—the first social evening at the White House since war broke out more than a year ago—appeared a little glum over the fact that President Roosevelt had not dropped any crumbs of secret war strategy.

About 117 new members of Congress turned out for the event, including Rep. Clare Boothe Luce, the attractive blonde congresswoman from Conecticut.

Mrs. Luce said it was a "delightful party". She was asked whether she had a chance to talk to Mr. Roosevelt.

GROWING POWER

Production of heavy bombs, 1,000 pounds or over, has reached the amazing total of more than 70,000 a month, enough to maintain daily raids over Germany of many times the strength of the present bombings.

WHILE U. S. airplane production has not reached the goal set by President Roosevelt shortly after Pearl Harbor, nevertheless a comparison of the production figures of January, 1942, with those of the past two months gives an encouraging picture of America's growing strength in the air. regiment of the Nazi elite guard had been sent into Paris to quell any opposition to the German regime by French patriots.

New Violence

Reports of new outbreaks of violence in France filtered into London steadily through underground channels and neutral capitals. Broadcasts of Nazi-operated radio stations at the same time revealed that the situation constantly is growing more serious.

Neutral observers in Stockholm said the decision of Col. Gen. Karl Gerd von Rundstedt, Nazi commander charged with the protection of the enemy-held coast from Norway to the Spanish border, to evacuate residents of French coastal districts confirms the belief in Germany that the current 'round-the-clock allied bombings of Europe are a prelude to invasion.

Coupled with this, it was said, is the fact that the Nazis are fully aware of the dangers they face through French aid to the allies in event of a landing on the coast of France.

STIMSON WARNS JAP AIR STRENGTH IS INCREASING

weekly resume. Yesterday Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox told his press conference that in the southern Solomons American forces were stronger than they have ever been and that the Japanese supply lines were growing weaker.

These two varying statements indicated the Japanese were concentrating in the New Guinea area and virtually ignoring the Guadalcanal war zone. In the southern Solomons the largest plane squadrons ever to take the air from Guadalcanal have been hammering Japanese bases in the New Britain and Shortland island areas.

Stimson appeared pleased to confirm the announcement from Chungking that a new air force has been organized in China under Brig. Gen. Claire L. Chennault.

The secretary said organization of this air force indicated that American squadrons in that war zone were expanding in line with America's "determination to increase aid to China".

The secretary commented wryly that American fliers who have been attacking the Japanese in Burma have been "complaining" because the Japanese have failed to meet them in a single aerial battle during the month of February.

attempt to send up interceptor planes. All of the Allied craft returned safely to their base.

Later in the morning a single heavy Allied bomber strafed the building area at Wewak from low altitude.

Other Ships Attacked

Three other ships were attacked in the Banda Sea among islands of the Dutch East Indies. North of Buru Island a heavy Allied reconnaisance plane bombed two Jap ships. Results were not disclosed. A third was smashed by a direct hit off Butong Island. This vessel, a 7,000-ton craft, was left burning fiercely and probably was a total loss, the communique said.

The coastal vessel was strafed with fire when a force of medium bombers attacked the town and harbor of Saumlaki in the Tenimber Island group. Bomb hits landed on the harbor jetty and put a gun pit out of action.

Another Allied plane soared over New Britain Island to bomb the airdrome at Cape Gloucester.

Over the Torbriand Islands Allied fighters intercepted and shot down a Jap medium bomber on reconnaissance.

SMOLENSK AREA DRIVE IS PUSHED BY SOVIET FORCES

ceeding according to plan. It said the heaviest fighting was concentrated in the area southwest of Kharkov. Also, it was added, German forces west of Kursk, have begun retracing their steps to the east.)

Red Star, newspaper of the Soviet army, declared that the Germans are trying to penetrate back to Kharkov from the south and west by employing powerful tank thrusts. The Russians so far have thrown back all the German attacks with huge losses to the Nazis, Red Star added.

"South and west of Kharkov our forces fought against numerically superior enemy forces," the noon communique said.

In a battle for one large inhabited locality on this front, the communique said, a German group of tanks and tommy-gunners was routed. The Russians were said to have destroyed 15 tanks and killed more than 400 of the enemy.

Increase Smolensk Menace

Meanwhile on the central front the Russians increased the menace to the main Nazi base of Smolensk, bearing down steadily on the towns of Nikitinka and Lomonosovo southwest of captured Byeli.

The high command reported continued successes in the offensive west of Gzhatsk. A Nazi counter-attack in the area of one locality was stopped by a Soviet counter-blow which rilled back the Germans and gave the Russians control of the town. Considerable booty was taken, the communique said.

Several other inhabited localities fell to the Russians west and southwest of captured Temkino, rail town on the line to Smolensk. Among the places seized was the town of Isakovo.

Isakovo is situated on the Vyazma-Kaluga railway, 20 miles east of Vyazma.

The high command said that west of Lgov, 50 miles west of Kursk, more than 300 Nazis were slain in a Russian thrust. West of Rostov at the bottom of the southern front a strong Nazi counter-attack was repelled and more than 100 Germans killed.

Vyazma on the central front was being threatened from three directions. The Red army closed in rapidly after capturing Byeli, northwest of the German-held fortified city. Novo Dugino, 20 miles to the north and Temkino.

LARGE AIR SQUADRONS BLASTING JAP BASES

and Vila, in the central Solomons, and Tahili and Ballale, to the north, were blasted by four-motored Liberator bombers. A few hours later a "large force" of dive and torpedo bombers struck at Munda.

Large Force

The Navy declined to estimate the number of planes in the raid, but the mere fact that the force was described as "large" left no doubt that the squadrons now on Guadalcanal are larger than they have ever been.

It is no secret that American aerial and other reinforcements have been moving in a steady stream into the south Pacific ever since Japanese resistance finally was crushed.

During the early months of the Solomons campaign, a mere handful of U. S. planes were kept on Guadalcanal to fight off Jap bombing raids. In those days they were in constant jeopardy from frequent enemy naval bombardments.

Japs May Move

Since the America sea-air victory in mid-November, however, U. S. airmen have gained undisputed control of the skies in the Guadalcanal area and Jap pilots have ventured on raids mostly after nightfall, usually with one or two planes.

Conservative Navy men have warned, however, that the Japs may move again by sea and air to upset possible American offensive moves against other enemy bases in the area and to protect Nipponese installations in the northern Solomons.

The situation at present indicates that another "explosion", precipitated either by the Americans or the Japanese, is a momentary possibility in the south Pacific.

GIRL SCOUTS AND CHILD CARE

Child care is generally recognized as an essential war activity—and by none more keenly than the Girl Scouts. In 1942 the number of Girl Scouts who completed training entitling them to child care badges was up 100 per cent over 1941. Health and safety, which includes child care, proved to be the year's most popular field of interest. Nearly 125,000 Girl Scouts earned health and safety badges.

A Rarity Among Diamonds
The Hope Blue Diamond is a square cut brilliant of 45½ carats, and has a pronounced blue color, a rarity in diamonds. It was acquired by Henry T. Hope, a London banker, in 1830, and was later purchased by Mr. Edward B. McLean, of Washington, D. C., for a reputed price of $300,000. Its reputation as a harbinger of bad luck seems to be grossly exaggerated. Some authorities think that the Hope is part of a blue diamond weighing 112¼ carats which was sold to the French crown in 1668.

GERMAN RAIDS HERE?

GERMAN REMARKS about bombing New York, Boston or Washington may be dismissed by most Americans as Nazi bluff, but they have impelled James M. Landis, head of the Office of Civilian Defense, to warn all Americans that such raids are always possible.

The Germans may be thought to be too busy on the eastern front, in Tunisia and elsewhere to be able to send bombing planes across the Atlantic. It is probably true that the resources of the Luftwaffe are strained and that a single raid against an American city would be an unproductive expenditure of part of those limited resources.

Yet it must be remembered that the Nazis do not always follow what seems to be the reasonable course. Their overpowering raid on Rotterdam, though not to be compared in ease of accomplishment with a raid on New York or Boston, had no important military meaning.

In similar fashion, a raid on an American city might find justification, even at a high cost in precious planes, if it brought home to Germans the thought that, beleaguered as they are, they can still strike out at a distant and powerful enemy.

German psychologists might argue in this manner, or they might, with equal plausibility, say that the lift to German morale would be as nothing to the lift to American anger and determination that would be provided by the first German bombs on American soil.

SOUTHERN WAR BOOMS

Most of the cities and counties showing big increases in population from the war boom are in the South. While New England, New York and Pennsylvania register losses, the South comes through with flying colors.

Mobile county, Alabama, leading the country in percentage of population gain, heads the procession. In that procession are: Norfolk, Portsmouth-Newport News, Virginia; Neuces county (Corpus Christi), Texas; Charleston, South Carolina; Jacksonville, Florida; Columbia, South Carolina; Little Rock, Arkansas; San Antonio, Texas; Columbus, Georgia.

In the Eastern Central states, Detroit, Chicago and Milwaukee have benefited most from the war. In the Western Central states Wichita is outstanding. Its gain is put above that of any other city in the Southwest save Corpus Christi. In the Pacific Coast galaxy, the population of San Diego is reported to have grown from 276,000 to 370,000.

DUMMY—DON'T FORGET IT

For the first time in eight years changes have been made in the rules and scoring of contract bridge, which has literally millions of devotees in this country. The changes, effective April 1, are not particularly consequential, and will not materially affect the ordinary parlor game.

But there is one change in nomenclature that will evoke a grin from the layman at the bridge table, if only because it represents the discomfiture of some leading experts of the Whist club of New York and of the American Contract Bridge league, which control the game in America.

Those thirteen upturned cards for eight years have been officially known as the hand of "declarer's partner." This was a euphemism that all but the pedants in the game blissfully ignored. To ninety-nine out of every hundred players those cards constituted "the dummy," and the man or woman who had laid them down was merely "dummy" without the article. His or her part had resolved itself for the time being into purely wishful thinking.

Many a long-suffering spouse had found life unspeakably brighter for a moment when her play has excited grunt or jeer by ejaculating: "You keep out of this, you're dummy—and don't you forget it." Now she does it with full approval of the 1943 code.

GARDENING TO SPURT

A newspaper photograph shows throngs of shoppers, women as well as men, besieging a seed counter, not in pursuit of flowers for their garden, but of vegetables that can be canned for their next winter's table. The tulip or jonquil that has been forced on a sun porch now gives place to a flat of tomato plants. Thousands of persons to whom a garden meant roses or dahlias or phlox are about to experiment with nature in her more practical aspects.

To grow a good vegetable garden requires certain qualities in the grower. These qualities are not rare, but must nevertheless be cultivated. A garden cannot be grown on faith alone, and while patriotism waters the spirit, it doesn't help seeds to sprout. The spot, as well as the prospective crop, must be selected intelligently; persistence is required to make the crop grow and keep on growing. Luck also enters into the enterprise. There's not much that can be done about the weather, for example, except to attempt to offset it or help it along.

Not everyone has the "growing hand," but nearly everyone, with a small bit of land at his disposal, can grow some kind of vegetable that will turn out to be edible. Not everyone loves flowers, but everyone likes to eat. Working in a vegetable patch this summer will be work for the satisfaction of a prime human need.

A vegetable garden isn't supposed to be aesthetic. But he who rests on a bench in the warm dusk of midsummer and gazes upon tomatoes, beans, beets, lettuce and even corn, will derive the same sort of aesthetic pleasure that used to come from a tip-top dinner. The most delicate of all delicacies will grace his table—those he grew himself.

Now someone has knitted a muffler of canine hair. Goes well, no doubt, with that hangdog look.

Cheer up. There is yet no rationing of flapjacks and waffles. The only problem now is to get the butter and syrup.

Rommel may have returned to Germany, suggests a news dispatch. Sounds like so much wishful thinking—on Rommel's part.

It's Zadok Dumkopf who says that the maid who knocks off all the handles on Mother's best tea set was just simply ahead of her times.

Judging by reports from various parts of the nation last month was the coldest, warmest, stormiest, mildest, sloppiest and sunniest February in many years.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

TOTS' PLAYTHINGS AT NO COST

IN ANY home, the child just beginning to creep finds his most attractive toys in the kitchen. The pots and pans and lids hardly have an equal in allurement. The child can manipulate them, make noises with them and turn them into all sorts of combinations. He also can put smaller things into them and dump these smaller things from one container to another. Such toys cost nothing; they easily can be thrown into boiling water to be sterilized. You cannot buy better toys for the baby under three or four.

Fasten a string to a pan that has a handle, and see the child delight to drag it around. Many a home has spoons. Put a good number of them on a string for the baby, cord and rope saved from packages, where the child can use them. Long before he can tie a knot he will fasten toys together in his own crude way. A few blunt sticks or pieces of board tied together make an attractive train for the toddler.

Coffee cans, oatmeal boxes, shoe boxes, wooden boxes large and small, all sorts of containers which are not dangerous to the child, prove to be good toys. As the child grows older he will learn to make a variety of toys from such things.

Never throw away a magazine. The little child of one or two likes to leaf through it looking at the pictures. At three or four he likes to cut pictures from it and paste them in a scrap book. At this age the child should have blunt-nosed scissors of his own.

He should have some paste. You can make it out of flour and water. Put away the plain wrapping paper which comes on packages for your child to draw and scribble on.

Give him colored crayons, as a wooden pencil is dangerous to the child under four or five. If you have no low table for him, put a newspaper or magazine on the floor and let him write there.

Let the small child have a small pail or two in which to carry blocks and other things about the house. When he can be out of doors, give him the fire shovel and a small hoe, to dig or shovel snow or sand or dirt.

As early as the age of two or three the child can learn to drive a nail into soft wood. Let him have soft boards or boxes, and let him pound to his heart's content.

Measurements Mrs. Myers and I devised for making a home-made set of blocks may be had by writing me in care of this paper, enclosing self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

Solving Parent Problem

Q. For which you should the parents have more concern, for the one who talks too much at the table or the fireside, or for the one who rarely talks at all?

A. For the one who rarely talks at all. Unfortunately, many parents consider the latter a model child, since he lets them talk and does not bother them. But see what companionships are lost to all the family, and what the youth loses in development of speech and personality. My selected list of books on "Developing personality and mental health," may be had without cost to you, by writing me at 235 East 45th street, New York City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it. Most of these books should be found in any good public library.

THE HATED HITLER

If what is done in France is fair
And what in Holland suits them there;
If Norway likes the new regime
Of rolling tank and siren scream;
If Poland is contented now
Beneath the German yoke to bow
And Italy can find delight
In being forced to such a plight
Then Hitler should sleep well tonight.
But France in chains still French will stay.
Once let the German look away
And France will strike, and Holland, too!
Nor all that might has power to do
Can make men love what they despise.
Slaves always wait the chance to rise.
So Hitler nightly has to keep
Tall guards about him, several deep.
Before he dares to try to sleep.
Nowhere in all the world today
Could he find safety should he stray;
No land, with all he's overthrown,
Where he would venture out alone!
No park bench, north or east or west
Where he would dare to sit and rest.
No place, by all his forces trod,
Defying all the laws of God,
Where Hitler could in safety nod.

Dolcini—Health good?

There is talk of national prohibition in Washington. The scarcity of booze and it's high price is quite a good prohibition.

The man had been stranded, all alone, on a barren island for ten years. One day, as he was sitting on the beach, he noticed a raft floating toward the island. On the raft, sitting on a whiskey keg, was a beautiful blonde. The man waited until the raft drew near and then waded out to help beach it.

"How long have you been on this island?" asked the beautiful blonde.

"Ten years," growled the castaway.

"Well," queried the blond, "Aren't you glad to see me?"

"Dunno," said the castaway. "Got any good whiskey in that keg."

READING CHILDREN'S LETTERS

A correspondent asks: "Is it right to open children's mail and read the contents before handing the letters to them? I contend that they should have the first reading of their letters, but my sister says I am wrong. What do you say?"

You are right and your sister is wrong. In prisons, reformatories and in some disciplinary schools, letters are opened and read before the inmates or pupils are allowed to see the correspondence, some of which, for good reasons, never reaches the persons addressed. But home is neither a penal nor a reform institution and the children are not "under suspicion" of communication with criminals. They should have the privilege of opening their own letters, unless they are problem children, in which case their letters might be steamed open and censored.

A well-brought-up child when very young will not hesitate to read her mail to her mother or at least explain to her what it contains.

If a mother has any suspicion that her child is carrying on a forbidden or improper correspondence, she should, of course, read all incoming letters and do everything in her power to stop it. This sort of thing is, however, fortunately rare. Most children like to have "secrets." They like to feel grown up and independent, and their wishes should be respected.

COMING DOWN THE HOME STRETCH

Most of the trouble in this world is the result of not counting the cost.

Every day we are face to face with some new crisis in our life. Some minor and some major in the importance of our future happiness and well being.

"Fools rush in where angels fear to tread"—every crisis in our life calls for a decision and, oh, how most of us hate to make decisions.

Do you always count the cost? Do you figure where you will land before you make the jump?

The difference between an honest man and a criminal is that the criminal gets an idea and plunges ahead on the chance he will get away with his crime, while the honest man weighs the chances of success or failure before he plunges wildly ahead. And, as a result, he knows that even if he could get away with it this once, sooner or later, he will be caught.

Success in battle rests on the judgment and the ability to count the cost of success or failure on the part of the general or admiral. Battles are not won on 'hunch' or on 'luck'. They are won or lost on the strategy, on the ability to weigh the consequences on the part of the leaders.

What YOU will be ten years from now depends on your ability to think and plan ahead . . . your ability to count the cost.

Honest work and honest effort cannot be criticised effectively.

The Red Cross can do more for you than any other agency when you want to reach some of your loved ones in the war zones. It also helps those who are left behind. Give all you can!

Hitler will do anything to win this war. He knows what will happen to him if he don't.

Mrs. Grabb—Any decent husband would give his wife all the money she wanted to spend.

Grabb—Don't be silly, my dear. There isn't that much money.

The judge had a prisoner before him who was charged with stealing. Speaking to a character witness, the judge asked: "Are you willing to vouch for this man's character? Do you think he would or would not steal money?" "How much was it?" asked the character witness.

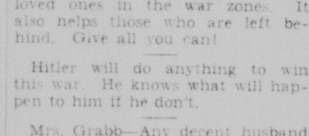

Dick—Did you get on your knees when you proposed to Christy?

Frank—No, she did.

We don't hear any people saying now that they think they will buy a farm and lead an easy life.

Getting married now is even a more serious matter than it ever was.

Hitler is a discredit to paperhangers.

"The average woman uses only 8,000 words." What of it? She needs only three or four to silence a man.

Doesn't make the human race appear very bright to have a war every twenty or thirty years to prove that General Sherman was right.

Many of the loudest rumors start with a whisper.

Hubby (on hearing burglars in the house)—sh-h, dear. This is going to be a battle of brains.

Wifey—How brave of you, dear, to fight unarmed.

There's ice age, the stone age, the bronze age, the iron age and now, financially, the shrinkage.

Knowing the Collector of Internal Revenue personally is not going to help. He didn't put March 15 on the calendar.

The danger in a boom is that it tricks so many into thinking they are shrewd business men.

Nobody In Capital Feuds With Elmer Davis
OWI's Chief Knows Business Much Too Well
Has Proven Bitter Foe Of Black Marketers

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, March 11.—THE INDETERMINATE nature of our wartime officials' squablings among themselves is a matter of common talk. They disagree in every direction, but it is almost never that one wins a clean-cut decision against the other fellow. Their quarrels go on indefinitely. Now and then some bureau head, like Leon Henderson, is forced out, but his successor almost invariably finds himself in just as hot soup as his PRE-decessor.

The outstanding conflicts are currently between civilian and military authorities.

If, in one of these controversies, some individual's job goes into the discard, it generally is a civilian's, for he is likelier to become discouraged and resign than an Army or Navy officer is to surrender his commission.

However, the row continues, under new civilian management.

There IS a civilian, though, who "gets away with it."

That is Director Elmer Davis of the Office of War Information. What he says "goes."

This is a curious situation. I have known Elmer ever since World War No. I's days. That was before he had graduated into the ranks of radio broadcasters. He was just an ordinary scribe—a recorder of current events; not even an editorialist. He was a peppy chap, but not hard-boiled, particularly. Today, he "sasses" folk even up to the White House. And nobody argues with him.

The evident explanation is that he so clearly knows his business—publicity.

The World and the Mud Puddles

NOT AIR ALONE

Air-power advocates, who continue to insist that as yet the war has not entered the stage of all-out bombings, should find the recent announcement of Anglo-American bombing strategy highly satisfactory. Envisaged for operations over Europe, especially Germany, the plan calls for round-the-clock assaults by armadas from one thousand to two thousand planes "when the bombers are available and the time is ripe."

The scheme is to smash the morale as well as property. Instead of concentrating upon night attacks, the Allied bomber forces will be divided into day and night squadrons so that the war can be carried to the enemy on a twenty-four hour basis, without surcease. British planes, the Lancaster in particular, will continue the night assaults for which they were designed, while the day assignment will be given the American bombers, especially the Flying Fortresses.

British and American air commanders reason that the division of forces between day and night is preferable to the larger mass attacks which would be possible in operations conducted exclusively at night. The Lancaster, they say, is ideal for night raids, but conversion of the Fortress for night bombings would sacrifice the value of its precision bombsight. Furthermore, concentration on either day or night raids would permit the enemy to effect a stronger defense; the round-the-clock blasting will force him to the strain of maintaining unrelaxed defenses by day and night.

The bombing strategy will put to the final test the theory that air superiority, effectively used, can be decisive in the total war of our era. But even if those who believe that air power is the supreme weapon are wrong, there can be little doubt that continuous hammering of Germany will have a vastly damaging effect upon the Nazi war effort. To say that this war cannot be won with air power alone is not to say that it can be won without air superiority wisely used. Thus, there is considerable encouragement for both air-power and ground-power advocates in the knowledge that we are not neglecting our opportunity to control and derive maximum strategic advantage from the air oceans of the world.

What Noted People Say

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson: "The army is being raised on the fundamental and correct theory that we shall at once take the offensive and seize a number of priceless opportunities which are already opening up for us to end the war as quickly as possible."

NEW YORK—Wendell Willkie: "Naturally the Russians, like any people, look on the loss of lives of their own young men as more important than materials and supplies."

WASHINGTON—Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana: "We ought to find out what Russia's plans are for the future and we ought to find out now."

WASHINGTON — Thurman Arnold, retiring assistant Attorney General: "We are on the verge of a new industrial age—the age of light metals and chemicals—which may bring a higher standard of living than the world has ever known before, better housing, better transportation, more abundant food."

Jeffersonian Celebration

WASHINGTON, March 11. ON APRIL 13 a joint memorial celebration in honor of the bicentennial of the birth of Thomas Jefferson is to be held by the Library of Congress and the National Gallery of Art. It will be the finest exhibition of Jeffersonian portraits, letters and documents which has ever been presented.

WHEN THE extent to which this truly great man was responsible for the American freedom, to preserve which we are now fighting, is considered, this observance is an exciting thing which ought to stimulate the national spirit and interest citizens of every party, creed and color. Aside from the benefit in recalling the noble principles of government which Jefferson enunciated and which are today our most cherished possessions, there is an incidental aspect of the celebration which seems worth general attention.

FOR THE chief members of the committee sponsoring the celebration are Franklin D. Roosevelt and Henry A. Wallace, while the main speaker on the Library program will be Justice Felix Frankfurter. Of course, these three distinguished gentlemen subscribe to the foresighted wisdom, sound judgment and unselfish patriotism of Mr. Jefferson. Otherwise, their participation would be hypocritical and absurd. Yet, in 1940, all three successfully opposed one of the great principles promulagted by Mr. Jefferson, the observance of which he felt vital to the safety of the Republic.

AS MR. ROOSEVELT is now actively striving for a fourth term and, presumably, has the support of the Messrs. Wallace and Frankfurter, it will be interesting to note how this fact is reconciled with Mr. Jefferson's solemn warnings against a third term which apply with vastly increased force to a fourth term. Perhaps they will just ignore them altogether on the theory that the eloquence of their eulogies will obscure the inconsistency. At any rate, it seems worthwhile to print again a few of the many words which Mr. Jefferson wrote on this subject.

HERE THEY are:

LOOKING AT LIFE

—By Erich Brandeis

Just now I looked over my notes which I usually make for this column and this is what it says:

"2 cups sugar, 1 cup milk, 2 tablesp. butter, 4 tables breakfast cocoa, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Mix sugar and cocoa. Add milk and butter, boil until mixture forms a soft ball in cup of water. Remove from fire, add vanilla and let cool. When cool beat until it thickens. Add nuts and pour into buttered pan."

What the heck is it? It's on the back of an old envelope addressed to me. But I can't make it out for the life of me.

Some abracadabra that's got me beat.

Excuse me just a minute, please. I'll be right back.

X X X

Just showed the envelope to the Missus.

"Can you make this out?" I asked.

She gave it one look.

"Of course I can. It's chocolate fudge."

And once again my admiration for those plain, everyday women that we call housewives, rose sky high.

Oh yes, I know something about writing. I have been in newspaper work all my life. I know type and paper, and something about the Morse Code.

But when I tried to cook spaghetti with meatballs the other evening, it was a terrible mess.

Yet she—she does it with the greatest of ease.

I couldn't darn a pair of socks to save my neck and when it comes to helping with the housework, I immediately develop a terrific headache and have to lie down.

It's easy enough to assume that superior attitude of master of the house.

"You don't know what a tough day I had," I say with a sigh as I sit down in a clean house to an appetizing meal (at which, sometimes, I grumble).

But let the little housewife go away for a few days—

Eggs, eggs, eggs. Dirty dishes. Ashes all over the house. No beds made. Just a mess!

It's only chocolate fudge—but can you do it? I'm sure I can't.

LONDON, March 11—The Germans are suffering from a new wave of second front jitters coincident with mounting unrest in France which has resulted during the past few days in the death of an estimated 350 Nazis, reports from the continent indicated Wednesday.

Increasing precautions against invasion were reported being taken by the Germans from Paris to the Mediterranean island of Crete.

Latest broadcasts of the Nazi-controlled Vichy radio indicate extreme tension in Paris and other parts of France where patriots have unleashed their fury against the Germans in protest against the deportation of French youths for forced labor.

Many new arrests were said to have been made in a drive by the Gestapo and Vichy police against alleged "railway thieves" accused of supplying black markets.

Evacuate West Coast

At the same time a broadcast dispatch from Paris by the official German news agency, DNB, stated that plans are being worked out for complete evacuation of all French cities and towns along the coasts of the English Channel and the Atlantic. The secretary general of the French National Emergency Council was given as the source of the announcement.

Dispatches from Geneva by the Soviet news agency Tass report that vulnerable Italian coastal areas have been placed under German military command. Certain areas, it was said, have been exempted from Italian law and all powers vested in the local German command.

Meanwhile the Naxis declared that Frenchmen who fail to register for compulsory labor service by tonight face severe penalties. A 25-hour extension of time for registration was granted Tuesday but so far few in the designated 23 to 30 age group are reported to have obeyed.

The Nazi "slave labor" drive has resulted in intensified guerrilla activity against German occupation forces throughout France. Street clashes have occurred in a number of towns and French raiding parties have attacked Nazi homes and establishments with hand grenades.

Morgan Showing Some Improvement

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, March 11—J. P. Morgan, banker and philanthropist, critically ill at Bocagrande, Fla., continued to improve today according to latest reports received by his New York associates.

The 75-year-old financier suffered a cerebral stroke following a heart attack. He is under the care of Dr. H. S. Paterson, New York heart specialist and Dr. A. P. Burns, Bocagrande physician.

"The improvement reported this morning in Mr. Morgan's condition continued during the day," a bulletin issued from the Morgan bank late yesterday said. The earlier bulletin reported "a slight but definite improvement over the past 24 hours."

Inside Washington

Army and Navy eat out of his hand. They know that, should he quit, they could not find a 5 per cent substitute for him. They simply do not dare quarrel with him. He not only gets on admirably with the Yankee press and newspapers in our associated and qualified friendly countries. He also slides his dope into columns in enemy realms. It is so good that they actually must avail themselves of it!

Elmer has staffs all over the world, in capitals with which we are on good terms, but I will wager he also has them, unsuspected, in Axis centers.

As to our own military establishment, he recently appointed Rear Admiral R. P. McCullough, as an expert on "confidential information." The admiral was not "wished" onto him, in a supervisory capacity. Elmer picked him as an unquestioned underling of his own. It is "going some" when an admiral is designated as an assistant to an ordinary newspaperman in wartime!

Admiral McCullough's function is not to SUPPRESS information.

Davis' mission is to DISSEMINATE it.

Byron Price is the censor. Davis is the advertiser. Byron is the husher. The two functions clash normally. They do not this time. Elmer and Byron co-operate wonderfully well.

Armiral McCullough is a kind of a liaison officer between them, under Davis' direction.

You do not hear much about Byron, do you? You hear a lot about Elmer.

One of Elmer Davis' theses is that we need the death penalty for black marketing.

Davis' proposition is that unauthorized grub will feed us with fatal stuff if it is not suppressed at its source—that it is indirect murder. General Counsel Wilbur LaRoe of the Independent Packers' association says so. Wilbur blames the Office of Price Administration. Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia of New York backs up this assertion.

The point is that there is no politics involved in the Davis reasoning. He is an unqualified newspaperman and radio broadcaster.

Well, New Deal opponents said everybody should look out for himself, and now people are doing nothing else but.

Bill Provides Reapportionment For Legislature

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, March 11.—A bill to reapportion the legislative districts of the state, increasing the membership of the House of Representatives from 208 to 209, was introduced Wednesday afternoon by Rep. David H. Weiss (D) Westmoreland.

Weiss said he would sponsor a measure Monday, when the Legislature reconvenes, to reapportion the senatorial district also. The House measure reshuffles the entire state, he asserted, along the same lines as the 1937 act which was held unconstitutional by the State Supreme Court because it inadvertently failed to include several townships.

There has been no reapportionment of the House and Senate since 1921, although the state constitution calls for such redistricting every 10 years.

A congressional reapportionment bill was sponsored Tuesday night in the Senate.

The Great Game Of Politics

honorable station in which my countrymen had placed me, is the proof of your devotion to the principles of our Constitution. These are wisely opposed to all perpetuations of power and to every practice which might lead to hereditary establishment." Reply to address, 1809.

"If some period be not fixed, either by the Constitution or by practice to the services of the First Magistrate, his office, though nominally elected, will, in fact, be for life, and will soon degenerate into an inheritance." To Mr. Weaver, June, 1807.

"BELIEVING THAT a definite period of retiring from this station will tend materially to secure our elective form of government, I have felt it a duty to withdraw at the close of my present term, and to strengthen by practice a principle which I deem salutary." To Amber Watkins, December, 1807.

"To lay down my charge at a proper season is as much a duty as to have borne it faithfully." To Mr. Weaver, June, 1807.

"Having myself highly approved the example of an illustrious predecessor, in voluntarily retiring from a trust which, if too long continued, in the same hands, might become a subject of uneasines and apprehension, I could not mistake my own duty when place in a similar situation." Reply to "Connecticut Republicans," 1808.

"Having performed my quadragena stipendia, I am entitled to my discharge and should be sorry indeed that others should be sooner sensible than myself when I ought to ask it. In retiring, I have the consolation of having added nothing to my private fortune during my public service and of retiring with hands as clean as they are empty." To Comte Diodati, March, 1807.

"THE GENERAL solicitations I have received to continue another term give me great consolation, but considerations, public as well as private, determine me inflexibly on that measure." To Marquis de LaFayette, May, 1807. "If the principle of rotation be a sound one, as I conscientiously believe it to be, with respect to this office, no pretext should ever be permitted to dispense with it; because there never will be a time when real difficulties will not exist and furnish a plausible pretext for dispensation." To Henry Guest, January, 1809.

"I should unwillingly be the person who, disregarding the sound precedent set by an illustrious predecessor, should furnish the first example of prolongation beyond the second term of office." To the Vermont Legislature, December, 1807.

"IF SOME termination to the service of the Chief Magistrate be not fixed by the Constitution or supplied by practice, this office, nominally for years, will in fact become for life and history shows how easily that degenerates into an inheritance." To Vermont Legislature.

"The example of four presidents voluntarily retiring at the end of their eighth year and the progress of public opinion that the principle is salutary, give it in practice the force of precedent and usage; insomuch that should any president consent to be a candidate for a third election, I trust he would be rejected on this demonstration of ambitious views." Autobiography, 1821.

IT IS hard to see how anyone, not forced to find an excuse, can thus read Mr. Jefferson and argue that he would have regarded the approach of war in 1940 as an excuse for a third-term candidacy or the fact of war justification for a fourth-term effort. The latter seems to make his third-term reasoning unanswerable. It will be interesting to se whether Mr. Frankfurter will discover a way to reconcile his own and the president's attitude on this issue with Mr. Jefferson's convictions, or whether it will seem more convenient to evade and avoid.

Devastating Raid Is Made On Munda By U. S. Bombers

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, March 11.—One of the most devastating raids of the the Solomons campaign against Munda was disclosed Wednesday by the navy in a communique which stated that a large force of U. S. dive and torpedo bombers started fires with hits on supply dumps and anti-aircraft positions.

Two raids on Munda on the same day brought to 87 the number of bombing assaults against this enemy base 180 miles northwest of Guadalcanal airfield

During the same period other attacks were made against Jap bases at Kahili and Ballale in the Shortland Island area as well as Vila in the central Solomons.

The Japanese retaliated weakly for recent raids by sending a lone plane which dropped bombs on Guadalcanal but caused no casualties.

Scranton Man May Succeed Beamish

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, March 11 — Reports that Harold V. Scragg, Scranton lawyer, will be appointed as successor to Commissioner Richard J. Beamish on the Public Utility Commission were scotched today by Gov. Edward Martin.

The chief executive said he had "nobody in mind," denied making any offer to Scragg and said he has given the matter of appointing a commissioner "no further thought" although it is "quite likely" one will be appointed before the general assembly adjourns sine die.

President Presents Most Far Reaching Social Document To Congress

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, March 11—In the most far-reaching social document ever drafted by the U. S. government, President Roosevelt on Wednesday submitted to Congress two plans for the post-war economy calling for jobs "at decent pay" to all who are able to work and outlining an American beveridge program covering "freedom from want" from the cradle to the grave.

The two documents, covering years of work by the national resources planning board, were sent to the Congress by President Roosevelt with the declaration that "we need to look forward to the accomplishments of these objectives — world peace, democratic society, and a dynamic economy."

One of the reports covered economic planning for transition from a wartime to a peacetime economy to insure jobs for all able to work.

"Men in the armed forces and all those engaged in the war effort rightly expect us to be considering their future welfare," Mr. Roosevelt said in a letter accompanying his messages.

The other report covered social security and was regarded as the American counterpart of the Beveridge plan proposed in England.

In submitting the report to the nation's law-makers, Mr. Roosevelt warned that "we must not return to the inequities, insecurity, and fears of the past. But ought to move forward towards the promise of the future."

VARIETIES FOR THE LARGER GARDEN

Where space permits a large variety of vegetables may be grown than is advisable in the smaller garden.

Crops such as peas, sweet corn, cucumbers, pumpkins, squash and potatoes should be omitted unless all other vegetables are grown and additional space is available. In fact it often is inadvisable to attempt to grow potatoes in the home garden because of the difficulty of controlling disease.

Varieties of vegetables suitable for use where there is sufficient space are listed below, together with the amount of seed or the number of plants necessary to plant to supply a family of five persons.

Beans:
Lima, bush: Fordhook, Baby Potato, 1 lb.

CITY MANAGER FORM PROPOSED

Legislation For Third Class Cities Introduced In State Legislature

By JOHN PAGET
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

HARRISBURG, March 11.—Legislation authorizing Pennsylvania's 46 third class cities to establish city manager plans of government was introduced Wednesday afternoon in the house by majority whip Walter E. Rose, Republican, of Cambria county. It was co-sponsored by Rep. Ray L. Riley (R) Lycoming chairman of the house committee on third class cities.

The legislation, which was referred to committee for study, provides that the question of adopting a city manager plan may be placed on the ballot by council resolution or by the filing of a petition signed by two per cent of a city's qualified electors.

The city manager would act as the chief executive and administrative officer of the community, while council would serve solely as a legislative body, under the provisions of the Rose measure.

Rose indicated that he expected opposition to his bill from Walter Greenwood, of West Chester, president of the league of third class cities. The house whip stated that Greenwood objected to a similar measure in 1939 on the ground that it would deprive city councils of many of their powers.

OCD NOTES

Activities Of OCD Workers Are Outlined Here

When senior wardens issue armbands to certified members of their precinct, they should submit the names and identification numbers to the OCD office so the band can be charged to the individual and not to the senior warden. There is only one precinct of 42 that has receipts in the clear. Please check your precinct, and then check with the OCD office, in order to keep the arm-band distribution charged to the right persons.

Each Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock there is an air raid warden class held in the City building, for the benefit of those persons who cannot attend the night classes. This class is for both men and women, and new members are asked to register at the OCD office. You may start in these classes at any time, for if you miss any classes you may make up the time at the end of the course. This course also includes the first aid lessons. Prepare to start next week.

There are new large posters of the "New Air Raid Warning System" in the OCD office. All members are welcome to a copy. The signals are in color, the meaning of each is explained, and each signal is marked what you should do.

Three-One post will discontinue all business meetings until further notice. All members of this post will be notified when the next meeting will take place.

Only a few groups of the OCD have taken a trip through the Control Center. Any group of 10 or more may make an appointment for Tuesday evenings to visit the Control Center. Phone the OCD office, 6586, to make an appointment.

P. W. Kennaday, 309 Boyles avenue, has placed quite a number of air raid signs in this city. He prepared them for members of almost all the Civilian Defense groups.

Two-Two post will hold a business meeting on Friday, March 12, at the post.

In spite of the fact that its hide will stop a bullet, flies cause a rhinoceros much discomfort. The flies know just where to bite, crawling into the creases of the armor-like hide where the skin is thin and soft.

Lawrence County Farms And Farmers

By H. R. McCulloch, County Agent

GROW SOME PLANTS AND FLOWERS FOR ENJOYMENT

Nearly everyone can grow a few flowers and some plants for the enjoyment of the family. Orders for seeds and plant materials should be gotten in promptly to your nearest reliable dealer in order to reduce transportation.

Where space is available, some flowers can be planted in rows at the edge of the vegetable garden and they can be cultivated at the same time that the vegetables are cultivated.

Sweet peas should be planted as soon as possible to get the best results. A few varieties will provide an ample supply of these desirable flowers for home decoration.

When the soil is ready, seeds of the hardy annuals, such as larkspur, petunias, and other such types, can be planted directly in the garden.

If roses arrive from the nursery before it is time to transplant them, it is advisable to heel them in to protect them against possible late frost. Mounding with soil as a protective measure is practical.

PROVIDE AMPLE SPACE FOR GROWING CHICKS

Chicks need plenty of space in order to keep healthy and to grow into profitable layers or meat birds. Some practical suggestions are listed.

First of all, a better job of brooding will result if the poultryman gives consideration to the relationship between size of brooding quarters and floor space per chick, number of chicks in the brood and season of the year.

Generally, 300 to 350 chicks can be comfortably started in a 10 by 12-foot brooder house if the chicks can get outdoors when 3 to 4 weeks of age. If at all possible, cockerels should be removed to other quarters when the chickens are not more than six weeks of age.

For early or cold weather chicks which cannot get outdoors as soon as later chicks and which are totally confined for 8 to 12 weeks, either more floor space must be available or fewer chicks must be started in one brood. For such groups, provide 1 square foot of floor space for every two chicks until six weeks of age, when the cockerels should be removed. From 6 to 12 weeks of age, allow each pullet 1 square foot of floor space. If the pullets are confined after 12 weeks of age, gradually increase the allowance to the 3½ or 4 square feet supplied in laying quarters.

Proper attention to floor space requirements during the entire brooding period is particularly important when sexed pullets are brooded. Day-old requirements may be met easily, but heavy financial losses result later if the chick purchaser neglects to figure that no broilers will be sold to reduce the brooder house population.

Winter broilers are grown in confinement in Pennsylvania. When larger groups are reared per stove, equipment capable of brooding this number, larger pens probably not less than 20 feet wide, and more floor space per bird must be provided. Better feathering, more rapid, uniform growth, lower production costs, and higher net profits are more likely to result.

GROW OWN VEGETABLES TO HELP FOOD SUPPLY

A good garden will supply healthful, nutritious food of high quality for the entire year and greatly reduce the family living cost.

Where manure is available, it should be applied on the garden plot and the ground plowed deeply as soon as it is dry enough. The soil, when handled, should be dry enough to crumble in the hand.

Lime may be applied, if needed, and worked deeply into the soil. A soil sample may be sent or taken to the Agricultural Extension Office, No. 206 Post Office Bldg., New Castle, to be tested for the need of lime.

The soil should be pulverized thoroughly and deeply. If seeds are planted in coarse, lump ground, they will be irregularly covered and will germinate poorly. Stones and bits of rubbish should be raked to one side and hauled away.

A broadcast application of complete fertilizer may be made before plowing or spading, and additional small amounts may be applied to tomato or similar plants, 2 inches from the plant and 3 inches deep, or to beans, 1 inch from the seed and 2 inches deep. Never place fertilizer in contact with the seed or plant.

Commercial fertilizer may be used at the rate of 800 pounds per acre, 25 pounds to 1,000 square feet, 1 pound to 40 square feet, or more in a small, hand-cultivated garden.

Weed control is made easier and much labor may be saved if the garden is planted in rows for easy cultivation. The best type of hand cultivator is one with a single low wheel, two scraper attachments, and long handles.

LET THE FARM WOODLOT SUPPLY TIMBER

Because of the serious shortage of lumber for construction work of all kinds, many Lawrence county farmers are cutting some of the older timber trees in their woodlot and are having them sawed so that an available supply of lumber for repair work and for small construction is on hand.

The cutting of trees eight inches in diameter or over is recommended and the production of lumber of various sizes for repair work can be made from them. A pile of lumber on every farm is helpful for emergency use.

SERVE MILK EVERY DAY TO MEET CALCIUM NEEDS

Milk can well be the foundation of every person's diet, states Miss Anna Marie Quinn, home economics extension representative of Lawrence county.

A quart of milk a day for a child and a pint for an adult supplies all the calcium needs for a day. It would take 39 eggs, 28 oranges, or 27 pounds of potatoes to furnish the same amount of calcium that is found in one quart of milk.

Besides calcium, milk provides liberal amounts of protein of an especially good quality. When it is necessary to serve small amounts of meat or other animal protein foods, extra milk should be used each day.

Although milk contains all the known vitamins, it does not provide them in sufficient amounts to meet each day's needs. Other vitamin-rich foods must be served daily to meet the requirements.

Milk lacks bulk but this can be provided by serving with it whole grain cereals, fruits, and vegetables. Raw fruits and vegetables also will furnish vitamin C which is low in milk.

Some folks have the notion that milk is fattening. It is no more fattening than any other food giving the same number of calories.

To be sure that each member of the family gets his quota of milk every day, it can be used in soups, cream sauces, scalloped dishes, on cereals, and as a beverage. Milk also can be used in baking bread and cakes or cookies.

FORMER BOATSMAN LANDS OIL CARGO ON GUADALCANAL

Commander Gardner Finishes Hazardous Trip With Supplies Safely

By ROBERT BRUMBY
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

GUADALCANAL, (Delayed) — Lieut. Commander F. M. Gardner's greatest problem of navigation little more than a year ago was to keep an ocean racing yacht on its competitive course. If the sleek, canvas propelled greyhound of the sea hit a reef, the danger was small, it could easily be towed back into deep water.

Now Commander Gardner, of Norristown, Pa., a former contributing editor to Yachting magazine, faces a more hazardous problem of navigation. A problem on the success of which depends the lives of many men and a cargo of motor fuel more precious than rubies to our fighting aircraft.

Commander Gardner, a spare, lean, tanned man of 52, is navigator for one of Uncle Sam's oil freighters. The other day it dropped anchor off Kukum Beach, ending one of the most dangerous voyages of the entire war.

Under the command of Commander Burton Davis, 42, former instructor at Georgia Tech, the freighter had defied Japanese submarines and dive bombers to deliver its precious load to Guadalcanal. Lean and bronzed like his trusty navigator, Commander Davis comes from San Antonio, Tex.

Awaiting Jap Attack

When the freighter steamed out of port for Guadalcanal, that place was dug in for a possible fight to the death. At the time, it was thought the desperate little yellow men might try an all-out push from land and sea.

Fighting planes on Guadalcanal needed oil and gasoline. Davis and Gardner and his intrepid crew pulled anchor at the request of Admiral William Halsey, scrappy commander of South Pacific forces. Halsey is a man to take a gamble when necessary. The oil and gasoline had to go through.

Only a few days previous to arrival of the freighter, Jap dive bombers had attacked and sunk a destroyer off Guadalcanal. Each day brought new threats of aerial bombardment. The harbor had been cleared of shipping. The freighter with its oil for the motors of Guadalcanal ran the gauntlet into an empty harbor.

Soon it was landing oil and gasoline for Henderson Field. Men on the beach cheered as the mechanical plasma came onto the beleaguered island.

Gardner took his feat of navigation through such treacherous waters with philosophic calm.

"You have more gear and a steadier platform than you do on a yacht. Otherwise the navigation is the same," the former Harvard man said.

"He did a fine job," Commander Davis commented. "Down the line my entire crew did the same."

"It was a greater thrill bringing the ship safely into port than winning any yachting race," Gardner said.

City Schools Collect VBC Books This Week

Current Contributions Of Books May Be Shipped To Camp Shenango

City schools are this week engaged in collecting books for the victory book campaign, books which will be sent to training centers, home ports of the navy, and U. S. O. recreation rooms to supply reading material for men serving in the armed forces.

It is probable that a number of the books now being contributed will be sent to Camp Shenango, according to Miss Alice Sterling, local VBC chairman.

Since, in this 1943 campaign, only good readable books, that live up to the slogan, "Those You'd Like To Keep Are the Ones to Give Away", are being asked for, it has been planned that books will be sorted at each of the schools before being forwarded for shipment by the VBC.

Daily reports on the number of books contributed are being made by each school to B. K. Thacker, principal of George Washington junior high school, school VBC chairman.

Latest report from the VBC collection center at the public library indicate that about 1400 readable books are still needed to meet the 1943 quota.

Among the recent contributions have been ones from Epworth Methodist church and the Junior Red Cross.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN STARTS RED CROSS UNIT

To organize a new emergency Red Cross unit, women of the First Presbyterian church met Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock at the church for an initial session of cutting and sewing.

The unit plans to sew every Wednesday at the church at the same time. Mrs. Joel S. McKee is chairman of the unit.

A good measure of work was completed with Mrs. W. A. Stone as cutter.

UNION TOWNSHIP CLASS CERTIFIED

Additional Union Township O.C.D. workers, under the chairmanship of H. M. Reynolds, who took the advanced course in First Aid, sponsored by the American Red Cross, in Union high school recently, and who were successful in passing the course, are now eligible to receive their certificates.

The class was instructed by J. Arthur Turek, and members are now qualified advanced first aiders. The certificates are in the hands of Michael Bowden, who was secretary of the class, and can be secured from him at his home, Cecil avenue. There were 72 in the class. Those who get certificates at this time, in addition to the 42 certificates on February 11, under Mr. Turek, are: Michael Bowden, Edward Donnelly, Steve Homm, Robert McBride, and Arthur Pierce.

SCHOOL TEACHERS SHOW EFFICIENCY

Issue Ration Book No. 2 Without Loss Of Single Book

Some idea of the excellent work done by the New Castle public school teachers in the registration for ration book number two was seen Wednesday night by the school board when Superintendent Frank L. Burton presented a factual report of what the teachers had done.

They were given 51,600 ration books for issue. Of these they issued 48,108, 272 were voided, 58 were not usable, and 3162 were returned. Not one was lost or mislaid.

They registered 15,653 applicants which means an average of better than three books to each registrant. In the matter of cans, jars and bottles of foodstuffs on hand over the five per person allowed, 20,615 were reported, which seems rather low. Excess coffee over the one pound per person allowed was reported at 866 pounds.

V. F. W. Speaker To Discuss Post War

National V. F. W. Is Making Plans To Protect Veterans Of This War

In a Speak Up For Democracy address at 6:30 o'clock this evening, George Hunt, speaking in benalf of Neshannock Post 315, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will discuss plans being made by this organization to insure the men in uniform of a job when the war is over.

"Those who are fighting to protect America deserve a much better fate than that which befell the veterans of the first World war when we permitted business depressions to create widespread unemployment," declares Mr. Hunt. "Now is the time to adopt post war plans which will tell our sons in uniform that they will not be expected to sell apples on street corners in order to earn a living when this war is over."

This is also the time, while our people are fully conscious of the tremendous costs of war, to adopt a post-war national defense program which future would-be dictators will, fear and respect.

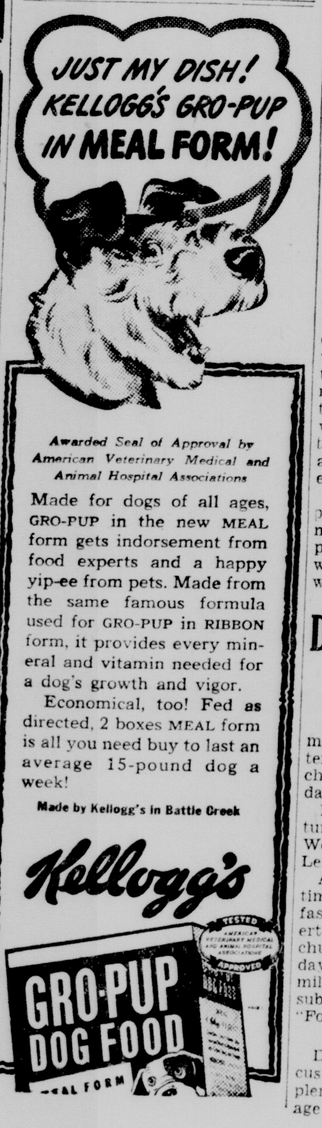

Dinner Event At Central Church

Opening their Lenten program, members of the Central Presbyterian church gathered in the church for a tureen dinner Wednesday evening.

Plans are being made to have a tureen dinner in the church every Wednesday evening during the Lenten period.

After dinner there was a social time, followed by a period of old-fashioned hymn singing. Dr. Robert Meade Patterson, pastor of the church, preached an Ash Wednesday sermon on the subject, "Humiliation and Repentance." His subject next Wednesday will be "Forgiveness."

Drug stores won't lose all of their customers. There will always be plenty of drinking water and postage stamps.

On that day when you fell into the hands of the enemy, a curtain dropped, shutting out the world you had known and loved.

You crossed off the days one by one. Time blurred into a gray and miserable monotony.

You wondered dismally whether you had been forgotten—whether you would ever again see familiar faces, hear voices you had once loved.

...forgotten?

Then one day, the curtain lifted, for a thrilling moment, when a parcel from home with the Red Cross on it was placed in your hands.

You opened it with trembling fingers. Out poured things you had not seen or tasted for months. American foods you had dreamed about all those hungry nights. American tobacco such as you had never hoped to enjoy again, and other thoughtful comforts to make life a little easier.

Thank God, you were not forgotten!

Back home, your people cared. Thinking of you, feeling for you, and striving to reach you through every available means.

Thank God for the Red Cross!

From that day on, you resolved to live through this. In the new strength of knowing that you were not forgotten, whatever happened, you would endure!

WILL REPLY TO WAGE DEMANDS

Operators To Discuss Demand Of Lewis For $2 Daily Increase For Miners

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, March 11.—A reply to the two-dollar-a-day wage increase demand of the United Mine Workers of America was to be made today by Charles O'Neil, spokesman for the Northern Appalachian coal operators.

John L. Lewis, president of the Mine Workers Union demanded the $2 day raise for some 450,000 soft coal miners in a three hour speech yesterday that opened negotiations between the union and the mine operators for a new contract covering wages and working conditions.

In addition to the flat $2 increase Lewis demanded a minimum wage of $8 without exception for the miners and asked that 50,000 foremen, assistant foremen and other supervisory employes of the coal mines be covered by the new contract.

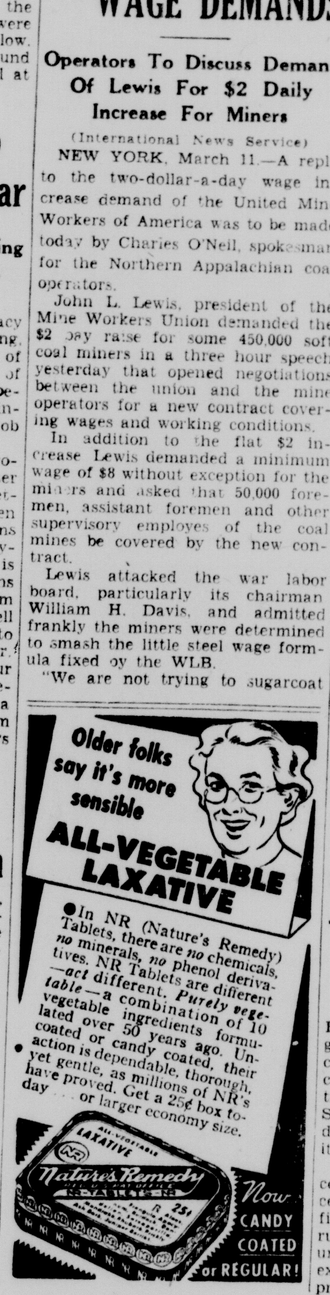

Lewis attacked the war labor board, particularly its chairman William H. Davis, and admitted frankly the miners were determined to smash the little steel wage formula fixed by the WLB.

"We are not trying to sugarcoat anything," Lewis said. "I want to break the news so that the War Labor Board can hear it."

Lewis added the miners hoped to obtain the new agreement without a strike but said the union was determined to get the two-dollar increase—"$2, not any more and not any less."

Declaring the miners demands were "modest," Lewis presented exhaustive studies of the rise in the cost of living.

There was no comment on the union demands from the coal operators except that the spokesman O'Neil pointed out the operators always followed the provisions of the law. After O'Neil replies today to Lewis' demands the union policy committee will meet tomorrow with southern coal mine operators who two years ago split from the northern operators group when the wage differential existing between the two sections was eliminated.

See Little Hope For Action Soon On Post-War Plan

Congressmen Believe President's Social Security Program Must Wait

By ARTHUR F. HERMANN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Congressional leaders today received the administration's post-war and social security expansion programs according to their political beliefs, but neither Democrats nor Republicans held out any hope that legislation would be begun in 1943.

Thus, with this cool reception, the most grandoise scheme for making over the American way of life ever espoused by an agency of the federal government, appeared to be shelved at least temporarily.

Privately, some legislators went so far as to declare that transmission of the ponderous documents to the Congress at this time was merely President Roosevelt's way of establishing the record of what he has asked of the 78th Congress and what it has failed to do.

Publicly, however, both senators and representatives pleaded the press of other vital war and tax duties as being the reason why the reform legislation can not be instituted this year.

Sen George (D) Ga., chairman of the Senate finance committee—the Senate group which would consider both tax and social security legislation—declared, "I don't think there will be any social security legislation enacted this session. I don't believe Congress will be ready to proceed with legislation of that type in view of tax and other matters now occupying its attention."

Sen. Vandenberg (R) Mich., stated that he did not see how Congress could act this season on a program it has taken three years to prepare.

Members of the House ways and means committee echoed these sentiments and agreed that there was little hope that the committee could take up any part of the many-faceted program until at least late in the year.

SCHOOL BOARD SESSION BRIEF

Difficulty Experienced In Procuring Quorum Wednesday Night

Wednesday night, March 10, was the night for the monthly busin \ meeting of the New Castle school board but there nearly wasn't any meeting. It requires a quorum of five to transact business and the board has but seven active members just now, two being in the army. Sickness kept Daniel B. Woolcock and Robert Preston home Wednesday night, and Leslie Brindle should have been home nursing a heavy cold. The board was just about through with its business when Dr. W. L. Cleland received an emergency call and had to leave, breaking the quorum about 9:15.

Nothing but routine business was transacted. A contract was awarded to Kirk Hutton company for 700 pounds of grass seed at a price of $104.

Authority was granted Secretary John B. Bechtol to pay current bills amounting to $6745.48.

J. W. Anderson, a teacher in the senior high school presented his resignation due to ill health.

The board agreed to sponsor citizenship classes in the Y. W. C. A. Since the abandonment of the WPA classes Judge W. Walter Braham has asked the Y. W. C. A. to assume the task of educating aliens for citizenship. The federal government will furnish supplies if the board will sponsor the plan and the board agreed.

Penn State asked for the use of the chemistry laboratory of the senior high school for national defense classes. The board agreed if State will furnish supplies and equipment.

Perhaps the remotest places in the United States is Gouldings Trading Post in Monument Valley, Arizona, which is more than 130 miles from a railroad.

GRANGE NEWS

EAST NEW CASTLE GRANGE

Members of the East New Castle Grange met in their hall Tuesday evening. The program was in honor of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Currie and Mr. and Mrs. John King, both celebrating their 50th wedding anniversaries this month. The latter couple was unable to attend, due to illness.

Opening with a grand march to the tune of "Put On Your Old Grey Bonnet" the program consisted of a song, followed by a talk, "Boyhood Days", by W. E. Currie; reading, "Caleb's Courtship", Mrs. Wilbur Barnett; "Our Wedding Day", Mrs. W. E. Currie; special music, Henry Wellhausen and Keyia Smith; reading, "House Hunters", George Glasser; sketch, Dale and Frances Currie; song, and an old-fashioned cake walk, won by Mrs. G. V. Gibson.

The guests of honor were presented with a gift by Henry Wellhausen on behalf of the Grange. Two large wedding cakes were cut by Mrs. Currie and served to the members.

The next Grange meeting will be March 23.

LIBERTY GRANGE

On Tuesday, the following program will be presented by members of Liberty Grange at their meeting; roll call, "Factors that retard grange programs"; "How Can We Pool Farm Machinery Most Effectively?", by F. F. Forbes; "Wartime Menus," Mrs. Martin and Mrs. Lorenz; special music, Mildred Turner; special feature, Harold Johnson. The juveniles will also present a short program.

The term "free lance" comes from the fact that in the later Middle Ages bands of knights bearing lances, and men at arms went from state to state selling their services to any lord who was willing to pay for their help. They were free from allegiance to any one country.

New Dependency Problems Arise

Drafting Of Married Men With Families To Present State Situation

STATE ASSISTANCE BOARD PREPARES

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, March 11.—The state board of public assistance today studied plans for supplemental federal allotments to dependents of servicemen.

With selective service headquarters warning that married men, including those with children, will make up the bulk of future draft quotas, new dependency problems will have to be met, a spokesman disclosed.

"Although federal allotments cover dependents of servicemen," he said, "the board is considering the policy of supplementing those grants." The federal law provides grants of $50 a month for married men without children and an additional $12 monthly for a family with one child.

The board also is studying further plans to alleviate the manpower shortage in the state, especially for farm labor, he said. Under the "grub-stake" plan of the department of public assistance, it was pointed out, many workers are being transferred to areas where they can be of help. The plan provides for transporting a worker to a locality where a job awaits him with the state supplying his room and board until his first paycheck is received.

The board delayed action on increasing relief payments to a "cost-of-living" scale at a meeting yesterday. A report was submitted by Secretary of Public Assistance Samuel Y. Ramage.

Action on the three problems is expected at a meeting "early in April" after the board completes its study, it was asserted.

Pomona Grange On Saturday At Pleasant Hill

Lawrence County Pomona Grange members will be guests of Pleasant Hill grangers on Saturday, March 13, for an all-day session. Pomona master, W. H. McCullough, will preside at the business meeting in the morning.

The afternoon session will convene at 1:30, and will open with a concert by Scott township school, directed by Mrs. S. A. Eakin.

"Today's News from Washington" will be given by the legislative committee, Mrs. J. O. Cameron, George Patterson and J. A. Boak.

Twenty-five-year members will be recognized, and will respond to "What the Grange has meant to me". This will be followed by a reading, "Our Grange Folk", by Mrs. Jesse G. Weingartner; an address, "Washington", by District Attorney Gilbert Long; music by Pleasant Hill grange; and an illustrated talk, "Milk", by Ray Marshall.

Governor Studies Relief Program

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, March 11—Gov. Edward Martin today studied plans to create seven-man county relief boards to assume part of the state's public assistance burden.

Proposals drafted by the chief executive's relief investigating committee, which is determining the best method for transferring the welfare obligation to the counties, called for local boards consisting of at least two county commissioners and one or two court appointees, with the remainder appointed by the governor.

The committee also recommended that: The merit system be continued; counties should participate in the financial cost of public assistance; the state should give some supervision; county boards should be limited by the state board of public assistance only as to minimum and maximum grants; further study should be made as to the amount of contribution by the counties and state, and study should be made to determine when the plan shall be put into operation.

Chicken have a caste system, too. The highest roost is occupied by the hens that boss the yard.

POISONING FROM FOOD

When canned food is not properly sterilized, bacteria grows in it and form poisons.

So-called acid things are not so likely to cause trouble. Fruits and tomatoes are classed as acid.

Meat and bland vegetables are most likely to be poisoned. This poison manufactured by bacteria is very deadly. A very small amount of it will cause trouble. A person may be poisoned by a mere taste.

Canned goods put out by the large packing houses are not likely to be at fault. Modern equipment and adequate government inspection take care of things.

Home canning is sometimes faulty.

The safe way to guard against poisoning is to heat the canned stuff before tasting or eating it.

The poison does not cause any change in the looks or taste. It is destroyed by cooking.

Do not taste canned meat or vegetables until they are heated thoroughly and you will be safe.

Training School To Meet March 15

Those planning to attend the leadership training school which starts at the First Baptist church, this city, Monday evening, March 15, at 7:30 o'clock, are asked to come to this first session about 15 minutes early, as registration will start at 7:15 o'clock.

There will be six courses offered, and those enrolling will be able to take two courses. The school lasts for five successive Monday nights.

The instructors for the two Bible content courses will be Dr. G. S. Bennett and Rev. Oliver W. Hurst. The instructors for the two young people's courses will be Rev. C. R. Thayer and Rev. Clyde Roland. Mrs. B. F. Johnson will be the instructor for the children's division course and Chester Kyle, chorister of the First Baptist church, will be the instructor of the music course.

The "dean" of the school is Frank L. Burton, superintendent of city schools. There will be a registration fee of 25 cents.

FORMER ASSEMBLY MEMBER McKAY OF GROVE CITY DIES

Funeral services were held today for Ray W. McKay, 59, of Grove City. For three terms a representative of Mercer county in the Pennsylvania Legislature, he was a member of a pioneer family prominent in early industrial activity in Pine Grove and Grove City. Recently he had been employed as an inspector for the Pennsylvania Bureau of Revenue.

McKay died late Monday night in the Osteopathic hospital, Grove City, after an illness of some months.

KIWANIANS HEAR FACTS ON INDIA

Former Missionary Tells Audience That Gandhi Is Much Overestimated

New Castle Kiwanis Club members heard a most interesting address on India, its peoples, customs, and much about Mahatma Gandhi, the man who would be leader of India's masses, at their noon luncheon, Wednesday, when they were addressed by Mrs. Edward B. Balph, of Youngstown, a former missionary in India.

Mrs. Balph stated that not all of India wanted its freedom, pointing out that 562 states were Pro-British, and depended upon England for protection. They are strongly in favor of the British government and are willing to fight for the homeland. They comprise 84 million of India's teeming population.

She pointed out that Gandhi was a much over-estimated man. That while he had tremendous influence over the Hindus, that he had never actually done anything for them. There are sixty million "sweepers", the outcasts of India, whom he has done nothing to try and benefit. If the Hindus whom Gandhi represents were to come into power, the old caste system would be rigorously adhered to and the low caste people would be worse off than they have ever been under the British.

Mrs. Balph expressed the view that self-government would be granted to India at some future date, but only when a strong and capable leader appears.

MERCER FARM HEAD ASKS EXTENSION OF FEED WHEAT PROGRAM

(Special To The News)

MERCER, March 11—Unless the feed wheat program is extended under congress, which last year authorized the sale of 125 million bushels of government-owned wheat at a special price for the feeding of livestock and poultry, Pennsylvania farmers will face greatly increased feeding costs and the wartime food production program will be seriously hurt, according to M. B. Orr chairman of the Mercer county AAS committee of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The program had the objective of encouraging the turning of surplus wheat into meat, eggs and milk, all of which are so greatly needed and of relieving the grain storage situation, Mr. Orr explained.

KENTUCKY FARMERS' FAMILIES ARRIVE IN PHILADELPHIA

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, March 11—The wives and 68 children of 22 Kentucky farmers now working on Pennsylvania and New Jersey farms arrived in Philadelphia Wednesday.

The farmers, who took a two-week course at the National Farm school at Doylestown early in February, were assigned to farms in the north by the Farm Security Administration.

The largest family in the group is that of Mrs. Flora Williams, who brought along 10 of her 12 children. Her oldest boy is a miner and the next oldest is in the army.

Curtin Protests U. S. Pacific Air Force Inadequate

Australians Irritated At American Optimism; Compare European Bombings

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, March 11.—Australians are irritated by the flood of optimistic American opinion that Allied air forces in the southwest Pacific are adequate to meet the Japanese menace, CBS correspondent George Moorad reported on Wednesday in a broadcast from Australia.

Moorad quoted comparative figures released last night by Prime Minister John Curtin which, he said, speak for themselves.

Curtin pointed out that in the battle of the Bismarck Sea Allied planes dropped 226 tons of bombs, while last Friday night alone Allied planes dropped 1,500 tons of bombs on Essen, Germany. If that sort of bomb weight could be dropped on the big Japanese bases in the Pacific, they would be virtually wiped out.

Moorad declared that the number of American and Australian lives lost in the Papauan campaign was high compared to the light, almost negligible losses suffered in the overwhelming aerial victory scored by the Allies in the Bismarck Sea.

Aerial victories, he concluded, are infinitely cheaper than ground victories.

New Taxes For Pay Boost For Teachers Urged

Sales And Amusement Taxes Are Suggested To Governor Martin

By TONY ZECCA

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

HARRISBURG, March 11.—Sales and amusement taxes were suggested to Gov. Edward Martin to provide revenue for increasing the salaries of the state's 60,000 school teachers.

The chief executive indicated that a new tax is virtually a certainty if teacher pay scales are to be raised to meet increased living costs. In his recent budget message to the General Assmbly the governor did not earmark funds for pay increases, but called attention to the problem.

The governor said that "something over $20,000,000 will be necessary to raise the salaries." A committee including Superintendent of Public Instruction Francis B. Haas, Budget Secretary Edward B. Logan and house and senate members made a number of suggestions on how revenue could be raised at a meeting with the governor yesterday.

Besides the sales tax, the committee suggested a possible amusement tax. The chief executive evaded questioning about his views on a sales tax, asserting: "Well, I guess that is a matter of the lower house. Revenue measures originate there." He indicated, however, that he would not be against levying new taxes to raise teachers' pay.

Present Claims From Aliquippa Slide Accident

State Legislature Asked To Appropriate $200,000 In Damages

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, March 11.—The legislature was asked on Wednesday to appropriate $200,000 to pay claims resulting from last December's bus accident at Aliquippa in which 22 passengers died under an earth slide.

Two Republican assemblymen, E. Y. Calvin and Myron E. Rowley, of Beaver county, where the accident occurred, introduced a measure in the house transferring the money from the motor license fund to the state board of finance and revenue.

The sponsors asserted that the accident was "caused by the negligence of employes of the department of highways in permitting dangerous and defective conditions to exist on State Highway 930, known as Constitution boulevard, in the borough of Aliquippa."

Claims should be paid, they added, if, in the opinion of the board, "a moral or legal obligation rests upon the commonwealth."

The measure was referred to committee for study.

City's Bond Debt Decreased $84,000

Controller's Audit Shows City Is In Good Financial Condition

Sidney L. Lockley, controller for the city of New Castle, has completed an audit of city finances in which he states that during 1942 the city paid off bonds worth $84,000 and paid back $37,500 borrowed money or $121,500.

Outstanding January 5, 1942 were bonds amounting to $652,000 and borrowed money totalling $12,500. During 1942 the city borrowed $25,000, or $689,000. After the $84,000 in bonds and $37,500 borrowed money was paid off the city's indebtedness the first of the fiscal year 1943 was $568,000.

In the Kids and Kubs of St. Petersburg, Fla., Three-Quarter Century baseball club no members are under 75 years of age. Games terminate at the end of seven innings. Members of the teams run to bases, although it was at first suggested that the oldsters walk around bases and in pursuit of the ball.

Butch is on a BALANCED DIET!

THIS situation isn't covered by Army regulations. But we're betting that Butch will find a way to handle it without spilling a spoonful!

In fact, we electric companies know just how he feels. We have the same problem. Right now, we're being called on to balance good service and low, regulated rates against fast-climbing costs and tremendously increased demands for electric power.

We're doing it, too. Filling all our war orders. Giving America far more power than all the Axis countries combined. Pushing production up and up. . . . And besides that, we're balancing a big plate of taxes.

Don't get us wrong. We know the need of wartime taxes. We're proud that business-managed electric companies paid $620,000,000 in taxes last year. That was 23c out of every dollar you paid us — 8c to local and state governments — 15c to the federal government — enough to outfit 1,687,762 buck privates like Butch.

How is it possible to make so much power and meet so many taxes at the same time? Because of sound business methods and long experience—because men, women and management worked together as a team.

But while we're doing all this, government and municipal power systems are not paying a penny in federal taxes to help win the war.

Shouldn't every one do his full share?

Military Men Asked To Prevent Waste Of Foods

BALTIMORE, March 11 — An appeal to all military personnel in the Third Service Command to conserve foodstuffs by eliminating waste and thereby putting G. I. garbage cans on starvation rations, has been issued by Major General Milton A. Reckord, commanding general, it was announced today.

General Reckord calls for the "utmost economy in the consumption of commodities which are essential to our armed forces, to our civilian population and to the armed forces and civilians of our allies."

The Third Service Command head said anyone—civilian and soldier alike—could contribute to the waste elimination program. Specifically, however, he pointed out that individuals at army mess tables could help prevent waste by taking on their plates only the amount of food they felt they could eat, thus leaving nothing for the garbage cans.

Mess sergeants and cooks were asked, likewise, to prepare only sufficient food for the number of men expected to be present at mess. Finally, commanding officers of all echelons and mess inspectors were asked to apply all "ways and means which will result in the men being well-provided with food but at the same time placing the garbage cans on starvation rations."

PRISON BREAK IS STOPPED IN WEST

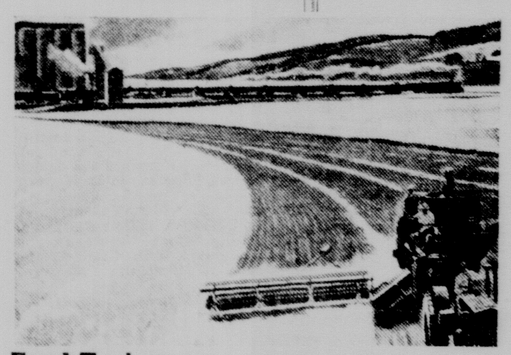

SAN RAFAEL, Cal., March 11.—A possible mass break from the Marin county jail in San Rafael was averted early Wednesday when sheriff's deputies shot one man while he was attempting to escape and apprehended three others.

Injured critically with two bullet wounds in the back was Glenray Neel, 19-year-old Marin shipworker, who was shot by Undersheriff Lester McGinnis while Neel was scaling a 10-foot fence surrounding the jail.

Trains that get the "breaks"

Troop Trains. Because a million troops a month must be moved—and, in addition, the arms and ammunition they need.

Food Trains. Because food for our fighting men—for our allies—and for our "home front" is vital to victory.

Coal Trains. Because coal is the nation's greatest single source of heat, light, power—we can't win the war without it.

Oil Trains. Because they must replace tankers, to serve homes, cars, factories—and to quicken overseas oil shipments.

Once great passenger trains had the right-of-way.

And they will again!

But right now there is a war to be won. So trains vital to the war effort get priority.

And we don't think there is a single American who would have it otherwise.

In fact, evidence of that grows daily. If their train is late, business men take it as something that can't be helped. They know why.

And so with any travel inconvenience that may be encountered. Demand for equipment is now so great that on arriving at terminals cars must be put right back into service, so you may find them not quite so spic and span as we would like. Housekeeping facilities are adequate but there's not always time.

But Americans are taking all this like good soldiers. For they know this is a war of movement, and that movement begins right here—in America.

LEGAL BUREAU HAS GROWN STEADILY

Takes Up Big Portion Of Third Floor; No Elevator

During the past 10 years the city legal department has become one of the biggest bureaus in the municipal family because it has for years been in charge of the collection of delinquent taxes.

Years ago the bureau consisted of a solicitor and a stenographer. Today there are a number of employes whose offices take up a large portion of the third floor of city hall. There is no elevator. The growth is justified when one realizes the bureau collected a total of $117,776.58 last year.

According to an audit of the accounts for which City Attorney Robert McKinney White is responsible, it shows:

Total of face, interest on delinquent taxes collected amounted to $76,809.96.

Total assessments for improvements collected, $21,285.21.

Collected for improvements after 1936, $16,087.83.

Total solicitor's fees retained and satisfaction fees retained, $492.25.

To show the gross collection of the solicitor the audit shows items which are not included in the regular monthly return to the treasurer but are handled as separate transactions and these amounted to $3,011.33. These items consist of property sales and redemptions, $1,765.99 and smaller items for compensation insurance payments returned, current taxes turned over to the treasurer, refunds and rentals.

The department is on the third floor. Many people daily must trudge up and down three flights because there is no elevator. Some years ago there was some discussion about moving the department to a first floor section or remodeling the East street annex building. However, no improvement toward this has ever been taken.

The Golden Text

IN MY FATHER'S HOUSE ARE MANY MANSIONS.

"Jesus saith unto him, I am the way, and the truth, and the life; no one cometh unto the Father, but by Me."—John 14:6.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for March 14 is John 13, 14, the Golden Text being John 14:6, "Jesus saith unto him, I am the way, and the truth, and the life; no man cometh unto the Father, but by Me.")

"Now before the feast of the passover, Jesus knew that His hour had come." He knew that within a few hours, He should be arrested, betrayed by one of his own disciples, should suffer agony and die on the cross.

He had loved His apostles dearly in their life together, and He would love them to the end. So they met in an upper room in a house somewhere in Jerusalem and had supper together. Now it is Oriental custom to set aside a basin and towel for a slave to wash the feet of those who have come to sup. The basin and towel were there, but none of the disciples, in the absence of a servant, would condescend to wash the feet of the others. After supper, however, Jesus, the Master, took off His outer garments, and washed the feet of His friends. Simon Peter protested, saying, "Thou shalt never wash my feet."

But Jesus answered, "If I wash thee not, thou hast no part with Me."

Peter then was willing for the Lord not only to wash his feet, but his hands and his head. He did not wash the feet of Judas Iscariot for He knew who would betray Him.

Jesus Sets Example

When he had finished and had put on His garments, He asked them, "Know ye what I have done to you? Ye call me Master and Lord: and ye say well; for so I am. If I, then, your Lord and Master, have washed your feet; ye also ought to wash one another's feet. For I have given you an example, that ye should do as I have done to you."

I wonder if they felt rebuked. Jesus had taught them that they should be proud to serve, and that the one that was considered great among them should be the servant. "If ye know these things," he said to them, "happy are ye if ye do them."

Jesus then said that one was there who would betray Him to His enemies. The disciples evidently never had suspected that there was a traitor among them. And now they looked at one another, wondering whom the Lord meant.

Jesus' spirit was troubled, and when the one who was nearest to Him asked, "Lord, who is it?" He answered, "He it is to whom I shall give a sop, when I have dipped it." He took a sop, or choice piece of food, dipped it into a bowl, and handed it to Judas Iscariot. John tells that at that moment "Satan entered into him" (Judas), and he went out. The disciples still didn't understand, but thought, as Judas handled the common money bag, that Jesus had sent him out to buy supplies.

"Love One Another"

Left with the 11, Jesus said some of the most beautiful words that ever were printed. Among them: "Little children, yet a little while I am with you. . . . Whither I go ye cannot come, so now I say to you: A new commandment I give unto you, that ye love one another; as I have loved you, that ye also love one another. By this shall all men know that ye are My disciples, if ye have love one to another."

Wouldn't it be wonderful if today, in this discordant world, it could be said, of all Christians, "We know they are Christians because they love one another?"

Simon Peter asked where the Lord was going, and Jesus replied, "Whither I go, thou canst not follow Me now; but thou shalt follow Me afterwards."

Peter said, "Lord, why cannot I follow Thee now? I will lay down my life for Thy sake." And Jesus answered him, "Wilt thou lay down thy life for My sake? Verily, verily, I say unto thee, The cock shall not crow, till thou hast denied Me thrice." He knew Peter better than Peter knew himself, but did not condemn him.

Other sayings of Jesus at this time were: He that hath My commandments, and keepeth them, he it is that loveth Me: and he that loveth Me shall be loved of My Father, and I will love him, and will manifest Myself to him."

He promised that when He was gone from them the "Comforter" (the Holy Ghost) would come to them "and He shall teach you all things and bring all things to your remembrance, whatsoever I have said unto you.

"Peace I leave with you, My peace I give unto you; not as the world giveth, give I unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid."

How many sorely troubled souls have relied on these beautiful words of the Master, and have taken courage. Love one another; serve one another, and do not be troubled, or afraid. That is the message of this lesson which we should all remember and practice in our daily lives.

FALSE TEETH
That Loosen Need Not Embarrass
Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wabbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Holds false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug store.

Germans Order Evacuation Of St. Nazaire

(International News Service)

LONDON, March 11.—German occupation authorities have ordered complete evacuation of St. Nazaire, Nazi submarine base on France's Bay of Biscay coast, a Reuter's dispatch from Stockholm said Wednesday.

Only 10,000 civilians of a normal 43,000 population remain in St. Nazaire.

Evacuation plans have been completed for all other French channel and Atlantic coastal towns, the Stockholm reports said.

(The British radio, in a broadcast heard by CBS, quoted a spokesman of a Vichy relief organization as saying that fires still are burning in St. Nazaire, seven days after the last raid on the Nazi base).

TERM ABOUT OVER

The March term of criminal court is about over, lasting less than a week.

Two cases went to trial Wednesday, leaving one remaining to be tried.

William Kolunie, charged with selling beer to minors went to trial in court room two, with the probability that the case would be short. Warren Blair charged with a morals offense went to trial in court room number one.

Wednesday afternoon a verdict was reached in the case against D. J. Rowland, charged with driving while intoxicated. The jury found him not guilty and placed the costs upon Mayor Charles B. Mayne. The verdict was one of the few times in court history when a person charged with driving while intoxicated, was acquitted.

The case had a number of peculiar angles. Rowland testified that he had been arrested by city police on November 2 charged with being disorderly. A fine of $50 was assessed against him by Mayor Mayne which he refused to pay. The next day his sons came to the police station and asked what the fine would be and it had been made $100 and $10 for physician's services, it was stated.

Rowland said he was released and given a week to pay. He refused and said that four police officers came into his home without a warrant and took him down to an alderman's office where he was charged with driving while intoxicated.

Counsel for Rowland argued that his client's constitutional rights had been violated and that there was no evidence of drunken driving or of disorderly conduct.

Wartime Legislation Introduced For Benefit Of Soldiers, War Workers

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, March 11.—Wartime Sunday movie legislation was introduced Wednesday in the Senate for the benefit of members of the armed service and war workers.

Sponsored by Senators John H. Dent (D) Westmoreland, Wallace C. Gourley (D) Washington and Joseph Ziesenheim (R) Erie, a naval reserve lieutenant, the measure would amend the Sunday Motions Picture Act of 1935 by making it lawful to "conduct, stage and manage, operate or engage in motion picture exhibitions" after 2 p.m. Sundays regardless of whether there is an admission charge.

The bill would permit Sunday movies in all communities within a 15-mile radius of any military establishment where personnel is stationed. It would be effective until six months after the war.

In introducing the measure, Senator Dent declared that "Pennsylvania cities near army camps are confronted with serious problems relative to entertaining service men who visit those areas on week ends." He asserted that "they are handicapped by the lack of facilities."

The law now provides that communities may have Sunday movies under local option, but only one vote in five years may be held on the proposal.

NEW YORK, March 11.—Barney Ross, ormer world lightweight and welterweight boxing champion who kissed American soil when he returned from Guadalcanal, will be doubly feted in New York today.

Coming here primarily to appear in the American Red Cross spectacle "Red Cross at War", the Chicago fighter will mix a little pleasure with business when he visits Madison Square Garden tomorrow night to see the clash between Tami Mauriello and Jimmy Bivins who are scheduled for a ten-round go in the heavyweight division.

Will Attend Luncheon

Prior to his appearance at the Garden, the fighting marine corporal, who proved he could "take it" both in and out of the ring, will attend a luncheon at which he will be welcomed by such luminaries as former Mayor James J. Walker, Lieut. Jack Dempsey of the U. S. coast guard and Lieut. Benny Leonard of the U. S. maritime service.

Highlights of Ross' appearance at the Garden will be the presentation to him by former Mayor Walker of the Edward J. Neil memorial plaque, an award of the Boxing Writers' Association given annually for the man who did the most for boxing. An autographed painting, bearing the signatures of many of Ross' friends, also will be presented.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS LAND

Gas rationing has kept a lot of folk from riding to distant cities and on cold nights many more stayed at home rather than brave a walk through the snow to central city attractions. However, with prospects bright for warmer weather March 26 it is likely that the pugilistic hungry will pack The Arena to see some good amateur bouts in the show sponsored by the Junior Commandos. There are some fairly good boxers on the calendar. No one has yet been disappointed in Frankie Cordy of Niles who takes on a once rival of Private Frankie Moran and the upset that Roy Crews of Ellwood City staged over Chris Tabor of Niles has caused Chris to want another chance here. Incidentally it might be kept in mind that Roy is the amateur 160-pound champ of Lawrence county.

May not be long until Wayne Sines, one of the better fishermen of this district is out and around. Wayne underwent one operation and later underwent another but the boys in the police department where Wayne is a radio technician report he is "on the mend" which will be glad news to his many friends.

Athletic Committee Votes To 'Carry On' Westminster Sports

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, March 11.—Westminster college will continue intercollegiate football and basketball as long as "the school is able to field a team in both or either sports."

This was the decision reached by the athletic committee during a special meeting.

Present at the sessions were: President Dr. R. F. Galbreath, Dr. Max Kelso, school's dean; Ross Ellis, faculty business manager; Prof. Walter Bieberich, language professor, and G. C. Washabaugh, athletic coach. Russ Canselor, head of the secretarial science courses and a member of the committee, was not present but voted by proxy.

The group confidently expects to see the continuance of the two sports despite the war, even if the younger-aged athletes will replace the older performers.

Regarding the decision, one of the men said:

"Westminster has carried on in the sports field for many years. We expect to continue, so long as we can field a team in both or either sports."

CHURCH LEAGUE SEASON CLOSES

Second U. P., First Presbyterians, Third U. P. Gain Wins On Y. Court

New Castle Church Basketball league rivals closed their 15th season on Wednesday night at the Y.

The competing teams put out another classy display that pleased a fair gallery.

The Second U. P. finished in a tie with First Presbyterians for third place honors by drubbing Wesley, 31-18.

First Presbyterians outscored Croton, 48-38, to keep step with the Second U. P.

In the added attraction, the Third U. P. nudged the Old Timers, 43-39.

Francis Pitzer sparked the Second U. P. passers while Hughes featured for Wesley.

Remaley Big Ace

In the second clash, Remaley parked 20 points through the meshes to lead the Presbyterians. Ron Nelson starred for the Crotonites with 11.

The Old Timers blew a 26-19 halftime edge as Richards and Reed led the attack for the younger cagers. Baptiste highlighted play for the losers.

Friday night, the Epworths and St. Vitus clash at 8 o'clock in a game which will decide the second half championship. In the event the Saints win, the season will be over since they copped the first half crown. If the Epworths triumph, the two clubs will meet in a three game series.

Sports Important, Bengston Declares

Pre-Flight Instructor Asserts That Athletics First On Training Program

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, March 11.—Sports always has and always will play an important part in the training of a nation's armed forces, it was pointed out in Philadelphia by United States and British army and navy representatives.

Speaking at a meeting of athletic instructors, Lt. J. F. Bengston, of the Iowa pre-flight training school declared:

"It has already been adequately proved that people in good physical condition think better and fight better than those physically untrained.

Sports Come First

"Boxing, football, soccer and swimming come first on the athletic training program at the pre-flight training schools of the Navy."

Commander J. S. Barry, of the Royal Navy submarine forces, said that even on the war fronts, Athletic programs were put into effect as soon as possible.

"There wasn't a port in which we stopped that Athletic facilities weren't made available for our men," he said. "If they weren't there when we arrived we built them.

"Four days after the British chased the Italians out of Somaliland the British Navy had constructed a football (soccer) pitch."

Sports Ramblings

What would you have done?

Close your eyes for a few moments and picture yourself in a North American Mustang Fighter, or any plane for that matter—alone. The stillness of night in the sky suddenly is unruffled by a snowstorm. The flakes play a monotonous tapping as they bang against and cling to the shatter-proof glass covering the cockpit. The white crystals, tossed around in pell mell fashion by a belligerent wind, form an invisible blanket. . . .

Many thoughts pass through your mind; one stands out—you've got to get down to earth, but how? Ceiling low; nothing above; nothing to the left or right; nothing below, at least nothing that the eyes can see. A radio voice from a nearby field, which has followed your test flight from the far west, blares out, "continue to a point where you can land the plane or bail out," or words to that effect. In another sense, take you, pick. What would you have done?

This momentous situation, succinctly and presented in my amateurish style, stared Lieut. Archie A. Shoup smack in the face last Monday night near Lebanon, Ky. The 22-year-old Bessemer athlete son of Police Chief and Mrs. Archie Shoup, Sr., risked his neck—and won—by masterfully bringing down the giant air monster on a farm, the only damage being a few dents in one wing. . . .

The popular localite, a hero of the football field and basketball court during his scholastic days here, could have taken the easier way out by bailing out. Why didn't he? Those of us who watched and admired his spunk on the athletic field and saw him scale unprecedented heights, have an answer. . . .

While of a more serious nature the predicament must have seemed similar to many Archie encountered on the grid or cage court. He liked to be daring, to gamble—the hard way. He was successful because he had confidence in himself; he was cool, earnest and diligent. . . .

Visiting me for a party chat before joining Uncle Sam's fighters I remember a few things he said. "This war, to me, is like a game of football. The lessons of co-operation, how it feels to be under fire diligence and many others, I'll carry into this war and into life. It's like a football game, only it's played in the air, on the ground and on the water," he said smilingly. . . .

I'm certain that when he decided to bring down that plane, he figured the situation was similar to a lot of tight pinches in football or basketball. That he won a decision over possible death is most gratifying to his host of friends. . . .

Archie's experience, duplicated daily throughout the world, reminds me of four lines written by a fair country guy, a respected gentleman and a former athlete — General Douglas MacArthur. When he composed the following lines, he had in mind, principally, America's athletes:

Upon the field of friendly strife,
Are sown the seeds
That, upon other fields, on other days,
Will bear the fruits of victory.

"Greyhounds" Are Favored To Hurdle WPIAL B Tourney Semi-Final Round Opponent

NORBERT BOROWICZ

Among the most talented dribblers in the district, Norbert Borowicz, the team's captain, is on his way to winning the W.P.I.A.L. tourney most valuable player award. He has pumped in 34 points in the first two stourey clashes, besides playing a sensational defensive game. He has scored exactly 200 points.

Pitt Stadium Clash Starts At 8:30; Claysville Quint Beaten Only Once

LOCALITES SEEK TWENTY-FIRST WIN

Separated from the Class B WPIAL championship by two eager teams, New Wilmington's high-geared sharpshooters invade Pitt University's chilly pavilion, tonight at 8:30 o'clock, confident of blotting out Claysville, semi-final round adversary.

The versatile "Greyhounds," bountifully supplied with everything, are picked to win because of height advantage, more experience, poise, speed and a more prolific scoring punch.

Cathcart-Borowicz Leaders

Leading the locals into battle are a pair of court giants—Kenny "Skyscraper" Cathcart, six feet six star, and Captain Norbert Borowicz, blond bolt of lightning. Both athletes have paced the NW quint to 20 triumphs in 21 tries.

In the first round and quarter-final skirmishes, with Evans City and Leetsdale, the pair chipped in with 72 points between them besides playing stellar ball defensively. Mainly because of Cathcart and Borowicz, the Eaglesonmen are favored to win the title.

A rare ball handler, an accurate passer and a deadly shot, Borowicz can come close to wrapping up the most valuable player tourney title by unfurling another eye-arresting show, plus another brilliant round of shooting.

Charles "Chuck" Evans, who surprised the blue and gold cheering section with a movie-like exhibition of shooting last week, figures to supply his customary scoring salvo to the attack. Green's effectiveness in plucking rebounds will play a prominent role in the outcome.

Dunlevy Valuable

Jim Dunlevy, the team's stationary guard, has been a key man in the triumphant march all season and can be depended upon to uncork his consistently fine play. While he seldom has a hand in the scoring, the smiling athlete is extremely important in Eagleson's style of play.

The college towners will spring their reliable "zone" defense against a "man for man" plan fashioned by the Washington county schoolboys.

Defeated Only Once

Claysville won 17 out of 18 decisions, losing only to Waynesburg, 39-29. The opposition does not compare in ruggedness with that confronted by New Wilmington. The Clayers have averaged 40 points, an indication that they pack an excellent offense. Defensively, Claysville's foes have averaged slightly better than 23 points per clash.

Buchanon, at forward, and Malone, a tough center, loom as Claysville's mainstays.

Claysville gained a match with the locals by eliminating East Bethlehem and Clark.

Tonight's victorious quint plays the Glassport-Oakmont winner for the crown. The date and place probably will be announced at the conclusion of the twin bill.

New Wilmington and Claysville play in the last half of the feature, starting at 8:30 o'clock.

The NW cheering side is expected to include close to 200 localites. Last week, about 175 Lawrence countians journeyed to Pittsburgh. School officials predict an even larger delegation tonight.

HOUSE LEAGUE

A pair of House-Indus league games will be played on the Y floor Friday night. The Falcons and Yankees meet at 7 o'clock while the Ramblers and Miltons fire at 9:15 o'clock.

KEN CATHCART

Tallest performer in the W.P.I.A.L. tourney, "Skyscraper" also ranks as one of the most talented. So far, the six-foot-six giant has tallied 363 points.

Wampum High, Old Timers Win

Geneva Reserves No Match For Wampum; Ellwood Vets Nosed Out, 42-40

Wampum's basketball carnival, staged Wednesday night for the benefit of Wampum soldiers, netted a tidy sum.

With more than 300 persons in attendance, Wampum high's crack team ripped Geneva's reserves, 63-31. The schoolboys took charge early in the fray and had easy sailing. Marich topped the winning score list with 19 points, while "Spring" Craine counted 16 markers.

Ellwoodians Lose

In the feature attraction, played first, the Wampum Old-Timers squeezed by the hefty Ellwood Old-Timers, 42-40.

At half time the vets puffed off the floor deadlocked, 16-16. Ellwood grabbed a 29-27 third period lead, but the host club rallied to win.

L. B. Hennon, Wampum coach, set the scoring pace with 27 points. Patterson featured for the losers.

Friday night Wampum will hold another basketball party for the soldiers. Wampum plays St. Mary's highly touted quint of Beaver Falls, starting at eight. The Rev. Fr. Peter M. Schirra, former St. Joseph pastor here, tutors the valley giants.

The preliminary starts at seven and pairs Wampum High's 1943-44 varsity against St. Joseph's High of New Castle.

Bivins-Mauriello Fight Friday Night

Top Heavyweight May Come Out Of 10-Rounder In Garden

By LAWTON CARVER
(International News Service Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, March 11.—Barring a draw decision, the best heavyweight currently on the loose will come out of the Madison Square Garden ring after 10 rounds of let us hope gruelling combat on Friday night, when Jimmy Bivins and Tami Mauriello will meet in their long-heralded rematch.

Strangely, the best heavyweight in action now may be a light heavyweight—Bivins, the Cleveland negro who won a disputed decision over the New Yorker in their previous encounter.

Bivins took that other one on a decision that was split wide open, with the referee casting a dissenting vote in favor of Mauriello. The two judges gave it to Bivins by a shade.

No "Duration" Champ

One fair and square thing about Friday's encore is that the winner positively will not be crowned the "duration" heavyweight champion, a laughable procedure which has been instituted in many other boxing cities to stem up attractions. At the last count, there were a half dozen of these strange hybreds wearing their phony crowns, but not one who could go more than a few rounds with the old master, Joe Louis, or the next best man, Billy Conn. Perhaps the latter couldn't knock them out, but he could make them wish he would. And that goes for them all—Bivins and Mauriello included.

Statistics favor a rousing battle, as Bivins is charged with only one defeat since the beginning of 1942, Bob Pastor being the perpetrator of that one and later he was whipped by Bivins to square that.

Mauriello, who has grown into a 185-pounder, has lost only one fight since he became a heavyweight more than a dozen fights back and that was to Bivins. They're a couple of pretty tough monkeys, as things go these days.

Farmer Committee On Gasoline Named

Local Committee Named To Insure Farmers Will Get Gas For War Production

Farm Transportation committees of the County USDA war boards will now analyze and make recommendations on all applications, new and renewal, for non-highway gasoline rations, Dorris L. Fulkman, chairman of the Lawrence County USDA War board has announced.

The Office of Price Administration has directed its local War Price and Ration boards to refer, after March 1, 1943, all such applications to these farmer-committeemen. Farmers will continue to file their applications with the OPA office.

This move was made, it is pointed out, in order to insure that farmers receive adequate, but not excessive supplies of gasoline and other tractor and engine fuels for 1943 production.

Members of the County Farm Transportation committee are: Fred L. Taylor, Robert P. Peebles, N. C. Kuhn, E. C. Grafinger, and Dorris L. Fulkman.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL

FLASH . . . Beans, Peas and lentils seeds have been released from the point rationing set up . . . This is the word that was received in New Castle late last evening from the Pittsburgh office of OPA. That means that you do not need a certificate to permit you to buy these seeds for your Victory Garden . . . These same items to be used as food stuff, as far as we can tell, are still included in the food rationing program . . . Again we call your attention to the fact that now is the time to start planning your Victory Vegetable Garden. If you need land and want it in the City, call at the City Building any day between 10:30 and 12 noon or from 2:30 to 4 . . . Ask for Paul Marakus in the City Solicitor's office. He can tell you all about the lot or lots that you have in mind for your garden. Some 25 lots have been arranged for this season in this manner.

Tomorrow will be March 12 . . . that might not mean much to you but to all those who have babies born tomorrow it will mean five dollars. This offer is good in Lawrence County only and is made by the President of The News, Fred L. Rentz . . . Important, all births must be reported to Mr. Rentz by April 1st, 1943 to make the $5 available.

* * *

WAKE UP AMERICA . . . can't you see what is happening to your rights and privileges. We all want to share what we have with our friends and fellow citizens. Rationing of vital foods and materials to help the war effort is fine. We must all pull together for one common cause . . . VICTORY . . . BUT we can't sit back and let any political party pull the wool over our eyes. Now is no time to say thumbs up or down on a man because of his political beliefs . . . any party has it's rats . . . but when the "Way Of Life" here in America is proposed to be changed to that of another country . . . then we say WAKE UP AMERICA . . . When you take away Free Enterprise, what have you left? All the great discoveries that our nation have given the world would not have been developed in a nation where Free Enterprise was not prevailing . . . Yes, we hope we are not too late in getting awake . . . We owe it to the men and boys who are giving their all to keep the United States of America sweet and clean . . and if it isn't sweet and clean . . . then we should make it sweet and clean. And if people would look ahead a little . . . they could see what happens when they lose their Freedoms.

RED CROSS SERVICE
Ellwood City, Pa.,
March 11, 1943.

Editor News,
New Castle, Pa.

There seems to be so much criticism about the Red Cross spending money foolishly, running the station wagon or other transportation. They bring all their supplies to Ellwood City from New Castle, and when we were in New Castle at their headquarters they came in with a load of cots, etc. Could that have been carried by these women? A passenger car wouldn't begin to take care of it. They are saying they charge for any service rendered. That is not only untrue, but malicious, and I am wondering if these people have a son or daughter in the armed forces and needed help. When my daughter, who is a nurse, landed in Australia and was there for a while, she wondered why we were not writing and that something had happened to us, because she had given us her overseas address. She also sent a cable. We were writing every day but she wasn't getting our mail. It got to the point where she was almost sick about it. We didn't know what to do about it, then thought of the Red Cross. They took care of this in a reasonably short time. They had contacted my dughter through their field representatives in Australia, telling her we were writing and in due time would receive our letters, which she did. This entailed telegrams and cable. It did not cost us one penny; we were willing to pay for it, because it made a homesick girl happy in a far-away land. The only hope of preserving what is the best lies in the practice of an immense charity. A wide tolerance, a sincere respect for opinions that are not ours.

God help those who, through ignorance or folly, push from them the generous hearts that might benefit and bless.

No, it is not for the rude breath of man to blow out the lamp of hope.

Instead, let us hold it high, a guide by day, a pillar of fire by night, to cheer each pilgrim on his way, for have there not been times, O God, where we peered into the gloom and the heavens were hung with black, and then when life was wellnigh gone, we saw a light.

It was the star of hope—the Red Cross.

Sincerely yours,
MRS. J. A. PEARSON

WORKERS MAKE SECOND REPORT IN MERCY DRIVE

Solicitors Working On Red Cross War Fund Bringing In Reports Today

Workers who are soliciting the various sections of the city and the industries in the Red Cross war fund drive are making their second report in the campaign at the headquarters in the Pennsylvania Power company building today, and the total is expected to be swelled considerably. Almost $9,000 was turned in at the first report meeting on Monday.

Dr. Robert F. Galbreath, chairman of the war fund drive, is urging the workers to get their districts cleaned up as soon as possible so that the campaign does not drag out too long.

One of the finest contributions reported to date is that of the New Castle Lime & Stone company, which reported all its workers have contributed not only 100 per cent to the campaign but they have averaged $16 per employe.

Another splendid contribution received today was that of $100 from St. Elias Syrian Orthodox church, which was turned in by Janos Mackul, the president.

Workers are very much encouraged by the reception they have been getting, and with better weather in store, hope to clean up their districts rapidly.

As soon as the large contributions from the various industries start coming in, the fund is expected to mount rapidly towards the county's $96,000 quota.

Chairman Galbreath has been much encouraged by the splendid job done in Ellwood City, where the Ellwood branch, with a quota of $20,000 went better than $11,000 over the top.

PAYS RATHER THAN STAY IN CITY JAIL

Girl Scouts Observe Thirty-First Birthday

● On March 12 the Girl Scouts will celebrate their thirty-first birthday. They are asking for a special wartime birthday present from the women of America—more volunteer adult leaders to help them extend their war work and to open Girl Scouting to the thousands of girls now on waiting lists. There are more than 135,000 patriotic women now enlisted as Girl Scouts leaders but many more are needed to give the Girl Scouts the birthday present they want.

As a tribute to the Girl Scouts, Inc., James M. Landis, director of the Office of Civilian Defense states: "The Office of Civilian Defense considers it a privilege to salute the Girl Scouts on their thirty-first birthday. Your ranks of young womanhood have proven, in this hour of our country's need, that you live up to the Scout motto: "Be Prepared." In community after community our OCD officials have found Scout troop leaders and executives ready with help. Girl Scouts, trained in first aid, child care, emergency cooking, messenger and other services, have given invaluable aid. Each day that the war continues it becomes clearer how essential the home front is for winning the war. On this front we can rely upon the Girl Scouts to continue to render services that will help speed victory.

City council met today in the municipal building and authorized the purchase of a Ford sedan at a price of $1,159.19 for the use of the city police department. A resolution authorizing the purchase will be introduced at the next meeting of council.

After the city clerk read the offer of the Francis Motor Car Company to sell the car to the city, Mayor Charles B. Mayne said the department was in need of a new machine for which $1,000 already had been appropriated.

During the discussion he charged the police cars should last the city longer.

Councilman James Gibson expressed the believe the city should advertise for bids for a car because there were other dealers in addition to the firm which offered the city the car today.

Councilman D. O. Davies indicated that he also thought an advertisement for bids should be carried.

However, the solicitor, was instructed to prepare a resolution if such legally could be made, buying the Ford, provided of course that the rationing board would issue the city a certificate.

Mayor Charles B. Mayne today announced that he has called a meeting of all retail liquor dealers to convene in council chambers, city hall, at 1:30 p. m. Sunday.

The city's chief executive explained that his call was issued because of matters which he believes of vital importance not only to them but the country generally.

It was indicated that the meeting in a way would have a bearing on the war effort and for that reason he expects that every retail liquor place will be represented at the meeting.
